Lack of Public Opinion on Action Has Delayed Action by Lower House

PARTIES FEAR CHANGE

Switch of 137,501 Votes Would Make Hoover Electoral Vote Unanimous

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1928, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington — Governor Smith's reference to the fact that a change of less than 500,000 votes, namely about 250,000 persons, would have changed the result in the electoral college has brought from the other side the interesting statistical observation that a change of 275,000 votes, or about 137,501 persons would have made the electoral vote unanimous for Herbert Hoover.

The Smith plurality in the eight states he carried was as follows:

Alabama, 14,046; Arkansas, 24,782;

South Carolina, 48,891; Mississippi,

65,460; Massachusetts, 21,073; Rhode Island, 1,498. Total, 275,238.

If half the number of persons in that total had voted for Hoover and the same number had been subtracted from the Smith column, the majority in each state named would have been for Hoover, hence the electoral vote of each would have had to be cast for the Republican nominee, making the electoral vote unanimous.

MINORITY MAY ELECT

While the electoral college system makes it possible for a president who wins a majority of the electoral votes actually to have a minority of the total popular vote, the truth is in the last election the electoral system alone would have given the Democratic nominee a chance. On the basis of popular vote many millions separated his total from that of

Herbert Hoover. The popular vote has been criticized as a method for electing presidents on the ground that the cities would dominate, as would the larger states. Only a candidate who could be assured of a heavy popular vote in the large states would ever be nominated, whereas there have been elections like 1916 which showed that the west and south could elect a president.

FORESTALL REPORTED

EFFORT TO FREE TRIO

Milwaukee — (P) — Fearful of an attempt to liberate the trio of alleged bombers of the Adler plant at Plymouth, the police removed them

Thursday under heavy machine gun guard from this city to Sheboygan for trial.

Every possible precaution was taken to prevent a raid on machines carrying the prisoners north. Milwaukee police joined with officials of Sheboygan and the city of Plymouth in the plans to insure the safe arrival of the accused at the county jail in Sheboygan.

Considerable interest was manifest

by outsiders in the plans for removal of the prisoners and the time they were scheduled to depart. The word was passed out that Sheboygan officials were expected late in the day to serve warrants on the three,

Tony Crivello, Jack Sore and Cosimo

De Salvo. The men were silently removed to outlying stations, machine guns were transferred from headquarters to these stations.

They without appearing downtown,

the Sheboygan officers went to the precinct stations, picked up their men and departed, and before any one knew that they had gone came the word that the prisoners were locked up at Sheboygan.

HUNT DRIVER OF CAR WHICH KILLED WOMAN

Galesville — (P) — A search was being made Friday for the driver of the automobile which struck and fatally injured Miss Lydia McClary, 65, three miles north of Galesville, Wednesday night, and then left her dying at the side of the road. Miss McClary was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the La Crosse hospital where she died a few hours later.

PORTAGE LAW STUDENT MARQUETTE PROM CHIEF

Milwaukee — (P) — Sylvester J. Hamela, Portage, a junior law student at Marquette university, was chosen king of the 1929 formal prom at a meeting of the junior classes Thursday night.

The election climaxed more than two weeks of intensive campaigning. Herbert Fries, Glidden, an engineering student, was chosen chairman of the informal prom.

The date of the prom, sometime in February, will be set by the chairman.

They're Happy to Be Alive

SURVIVORS!—There they are, just as they appeared when saved from the sea—a few of the 217 rescued when the S. S. Vestris went down! The camera caught them a few minutes after they had been taken from a lifeboat to the safety of the S. S. American Shipper's deck—disheveled, pajama clad, some almost exhausted—but happy to be alive. Hence the smiles!

Hoover Wrinkles Brow Over Nicaragua Speech

BY JAMES L. WEST

Associated Press Staff Writer

Stanford University, Calif. — (P) —

With many details of the itinerary for his good will voyage to

out, Herbert Hoover Friday faced the difficult diplomatic task of working out the character of the message he will deliver to Nicaragua

when he touches that turbulent

Central American republic.

In the elections, supervised by the United States marines, which took place two days before his visit, the Conservative party in Nicaragua was defeated and General Jose Maria Moncada, a Liberal was elected. It may be that when the battleship Maryland docks at Corinto, the president-elect will be met by both the president-elect of Nicaragua and the Conservative representative, President Diaz.

The diplomatic difficulties are enhanced by the fact that although the United States refused to recognize Chamorro, a Conservative, after Sacasa, a Liberal president, had been unseated by a revolution, it did recognize Diaz, who was selected by the Nicaraguan congress to succeed him. In the revolutions which followed, the United States marines were sent to the country, and they remained there to super-viser the election in which another

Liberal was chosen.

Already during the course of his companion, the president-elect has touched upon the general subject of armed intervention abroad, expressing in his Boston address a hope that such incidents would not again occur. Under the present itinerary, the Nicaraguan republic will be the first to be visited by Mr. Hoover on his passage southward.

The battleship Maryland, which will carry his party on the good will mission, was to leave San Francisco

Friday to move down the California coast to San Pedro, where the president-elect will board it on Monday. The ship has been in dry dock for the last several days in preparation for the trip.

A representative of the state department was to come to the Hoover home Friday to issue passports to all members of the family.

While pushing these plans for his journey, the president-elect also was busy signing the hundreds of replies that daily are being sent to the mountain of congratulatory telegrams and letters that swept in upon him after his election.

The club keeper said the two men become very enraged when he discharged his rifle at their hunting dog as they stalked through the club's preserves, shotguns in reach; their arms, Callicott approached him, cursing. Montgomery said, and fired at him after an argument.

Montgomery said he returned the fire and Callicott crumpled to the soft ground. Mahon quickly swung his gun to shoulder, and the keeper said they fired almost together. Again Montgomery escaped uninjured, while Mahon fell.

FOND DU LAC-CO BOARD SILENT ON 4-CENT TAX

Fond du Lac — (P) — Efforts to have the Fond du Lac board place its self on record in opposition to the state highway commission's proposal to increase the gas tax to 4 cents against the defeated Thursday.

The vote against a resolution to this effect was 40 to 10. Subsequent efforts to have the board make its stand positive were quashed.

BODY OF MAN FOUND HANGING AT COTTAGE

Sheboygan — (P) — The body of Louis Grasse, 54, former president of the Grasse Oil company of Shebo-gan, was found hanging on the porch of a cottage at Black River.

Searchers found the body Thursday afternoon when they started a hunt after Mr. Grasse failed to appear for judgment. He had been in failing

Sharp Rise At Opening Of Exchange

Nearly 600,000 Shares Exchange Hands During First 15 Minutes

BULLETIN

New York — (P) — A 6,000,000-share

day boom in the New York Stock exchange Friday when a tremendous flood of buying orders poured onto the floor, lifting two score issues to record high levels on gains that ran as high as $21 a share. Trading facilities of the exchange were again swamped by the wild orgy of buying, which received its chief impetus from the unexpectedly small increase of less than $2,000,000 in federal reserve brokers loans as against early estimates of $100,000,000 or more.

The ticker had fallen more than an hour behind the market before 1 o'clock.

New York — (P) — The greatest stock market opening in recent years took place Friday when more than a score issues were pushed up

$3 to $16 a share in the first few minutes of trading on buying presumably influenced by the unex-

000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans.

Twenty stocks opened with blocks of 5,000 to 20,000 shares, total sales in the first 15 minutes of time aggregating nearly 600,000 shares.

block of 20,000 shares at $71.50, up

$2.50; Consolidated Gas with a block of 13,500 shares at $87.37½, up

$1.37½, to a new high record and

Chrysler motors with a block of 13-

NIGHT CLUBS RAIDED BY FEDERAL AGENTS

200 Officers Sweep Down on Speakeasies in New York Theatrical District

New York — (P) — Sweeping from

Greenwich village to the midtown theatrical section, 200 prohibition

agents shortly after midnight raided

10 alleged speakeasies and night clubs and arrested 18 persons.

Warrants were issued during the last few weeks on evidence gathered by two special agents from Washington operating under orders of

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement.

The agents reported the seizure of a quantity of liquor in each place.

Those arrested were all employees and were charged with illegal possession of liquor. Patrons were not molested.

The raiders gathered at prohibition headquarters late in the afternoon and were given their instructions behind closed doors to prevent any leakage of information. Even the telephones were temporarily discontinued.

Assembling in groups of 10 the agents descended almost simultaneously on suspected establishments.

Although the raids were made before the evening's revelry had fairly started in many of the places, some were well filled with patrons.

FREIGHT CONDUCTOR KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Horicon — (P) — Caught under the Alumni Arriving For Lawrence College Homecoming

PEP MEETING TONIGHT WILL KEY STUDENTS

Annual Parade Down College-ave Will Be Held Saturday Morning

Beginning with "Into the No-Where", a pantomime with action set to music and produced by residents of Peabody hall under the direction of Miss Lucile Wally Lawrence college opened its seventh annual homecoming at student convocation Friday morning. The performance was preceded by an enthusiastic pep meeting which was but an indication of what the next 48 hours will produce.

At a meeting of Blue Key, campus service organization, Wednesday evening, final plans were laid and at the last meeting of the committee in charge of arrangements Thursday evening, final reports were completed. After weeks of unusual activity, the program of events has been worked out as scheduled and on the eve of presentation it would appear that all is set for the biggest homecoming in the history of the college. Greek letter groups and other college organizations, working in conjunction with college officials, have stirred up considerable interest and each passing hour sees an increased influx of alumni and friends of the college.

Homecoming booster ribbons were put on sale at chapel Thursday and the final drive will be made across dormitory and social grounds Friday. The ribbons are being sold by Blue Key in order to defray expenses of homecoming.

JUDGE DECORATIONS
Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock the judging of house decorations will take place as scheduled and the final visit will be made at 6:45 o'clock when the lighting effects will be displayed to their best advantage. The fraternity with the best house decoration will receive a cup, while the dormitory decorated to best advantage will be awarded a banner. The judges of decorations are three Appleton men: Fred Schintz, Norman Bell, and Lawrence Zwicker. The weekly Friday frolic will open festivities for the evening, followed by a pep meeting at the chapel, a feature of the evening, and closing with the traditional torch-light parade.

The program of homecoming day proper will be opened at 10 o'clock Saturday morning with the homecoming parade. The course of the procession, headed by Chief George T. Prim and the college band, will be down College-ave, to Oneida-st., one block north, a block west on Washington-st., a block south along Appleton-st., and then back to the chapel via College-ave. The order of parade will be made known when the entrants and the freshmen, who by a proclamation of the Student Senate are required to march displaying their green, gather at the chapel. The college band will be led in blue and white. The float awarded a cup for the best float, a pennant for the best dormitory float, and a pennant for the best club float. Judges of the decorations will be Professor Otto P. Fairfield, A. C. Denny, and Miss Lucile Wally.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the Artillery band will head a procession to the field where a luncheon will be served. The principal donor of the Lawrence gymnasium, will lay the cornerstone for the new structure.

CALF GAME AT 2
The main feature of the day, the Lawrence-Carroll football game, will be called at 2 o'clock. A large section of seats will be reserved for students. The Lawrence-Marquette cross country meet will be run at the half. During the course of the game, programs will be distributed containing writeups of players who have taken part in games this year, and pictures of the members of the squad who won letters last season. It will also give a complete lineup of each team and the number of each individual player. The booklet, which contains 16 pages and is bound in light blue paper, is being put out by Blue Key. Immediately after the game open house will be held at Russell Sage, after which fraternity and group dinners will be held.

STUDENT BURNED IN INITIATION MISHAP
Milwaukee—(AP)—Frank Reinhardt, 20, a Marquette university student, was painfully burned about the thighs Thursday night when being initiated into the Alpha Sigma Rho fraternity. He was hospitalized and during the initiation upset a table upon which was a bottle of acid. In falling the liquid struck his thighs and burned through his clothing. He was given first aid at Emergency hospital.

POULTRY AND RABBIT BREEDERS IN MEETING
Plans for a rabbit show in connection with the annual poultry show here in January, will be discussed by breeders in this vicinity and officers of the Outagamie-Poultry and Pet Stock association Friday evening at the chamber of commerce. Representatives of the American Fur Growers association at Nichols will be present to the meeting together with local rabbit fanciers and will present plans for a combined show.

AUTOIST RUNS AWAY AFTER HE HITS PEDESTRIAN

Joseph Wagner, 43, 417 W. Winnebago-st., was knocked down and injured by a "hit and run" driver about 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the corner of Franklin and Richmond-sts. The police are seeking the driver. Wagner was crossing on the sidewalk from the west to the east side of Richmond-st when he was struck by the car which was going south on Richmond. Wagner's head and chest and right leg were bruised and after being given attention by a doctor he was taken to his home.

TRAVELER DESCRIBES ARCTIC TO STUDENTS

Ralph Robinson Is Third Speaker on High School Lyceum Course

Telling of the possibilities of the frozen north, Ralph Robinson, Arctic explorer, spoke before the student body of the Appleton high school Thursday afternoon, as the third number of the high school lyceum series.

Mr. Robinson, who has accompanied Commander Donald E. MacMillan to the Arctic on four different occasions, pointed out that these trips are not only pleasure jaunts, but are for the purpose of scientific investigation as well. He told how on the last expedition they discovered evidence to "prove that the north pole was once a tropical region, and that plant and animal life had once flourished there."

The speaker described the life conduct, clothing, food, implements, weapons and recreation of the Eskimos, and spoke highly of their virtues, particularly the scrupulous honesty of the northerners. He also showed how the life of the Eskimo is one constant struggle for food, explaining that their choice of food is confined strictly to meat.

Mr. Robinson used 60 slides and one real motion picture taken by himself in the Arctic region, to illustrate his talk.

The next number of the lyceum course will be an address by Donald Keyhoe on Thursday, Dec. 20. Mr. Keyhoe, nationally famous aviator, was Lindbergh's aid on his South American trips following his flight across the ocean.

SHARP RISE DURING NEW YORK TRADING

each took place in Andes Copper at $45.37 1/2, up $1.62 3/4; Anaconda Copper at $98.37 1/2, up $1.12 1/2; Bethlehem Steel at $77.50, up $2.50; Kelvator at $17.75, up 75 cents; Briggs Manufacturing at $56.50, up $1.50; Johns Manville at $173.50, up $2.50; S. J. Seaboard at $64.87 1/2, up $3.37 1/2; Sinclair at $24.45, up 50 cents; and Sears Roebuck at $194.75, up $8.62 1/2.

DEMAND FOR PACKARD
Buying orders for 30,000 shares of Packard Motors were in the market at the opening with offerings of only 10,000 shares. A Stock Exchange committee was named to establish the opening price which was fixed at $114.37 1/2, up $5.37 1/2.

Greene Cananea Copper opened with a block of 2,000 shares at $164.75, up $7.25, and New York Central with a block of $134.50, up $2.

Radio, DuPont, International Harvester, Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers and Macy quickly advanced $4 to $3 a share. Montgomery Ward, which opened $10.50 a share higher at $104.50, quickly extended its gain to $16 a share by touching a new high record at $120. Radio, DuPont, International Harvester, Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers and Macy quickly advanced $4 to $3 a share.

BANK BANDIT SHOT DOWN BY POSSE IN WEST

His Companion and Three Citizens Wounded in Fight After Robbery

Marietta, Okla.—(AP)—One bank robber was dead and four persons, including another robber, nursed gunshot wounds here Friday following the quick action of a determined posse of 50 citizens in halting a raid on the First National bank.

Colbert Keel, 55, was slain in the bloody encounter Thursday and Haynie Liddell, 35, his companion, probably permanently blinded by a birdshot charge.

On guard for bank robbers since a raid in January, 1927, in which Sheriff Sam Long and Oscar Harrison, a bandit, were killed, the rapidly forming posse surrounded the robbers in their camp before they could leave the scene, and the skirmish ended at the rear door of the institution. The $10,000 loot was recovered.

DELAY IS FATAL
Success in sounding the alarm and recruiting the posse quickly followed the bandits loose action in freeing other employees of the bank after kidnapping E. W. Conrad, bank president, as a hostage.

Surrounding their prey, members of the posse opened fire on the car, in which Mr. Conrad was held captive. The president, slightly wounded in the shoulder, leaped from the automobile and flattened on the ground as the robbers went into action with revolvers. They fired a half dozen shots before they fell.

Liddell was wanted here in connection with the Love County National bank robbery in which Sheriff Long and Harrison were killed.

5 MILLION LOST IN VESTRIS DISASTER

Insurance Companies Lose $4,000,000—Damage Claims Swell Total

New York—(AP)—The cost of the wreck of the Vestris, exclusive of claims for damages by survivors and relatives of those lost in the disaster, Friday was estimated by shipping men at $5,000,000.

The cost to insurance companies of the loss of the ship and cargo was estimated at $4,000,000, about $1,000,000 of its being estimated on the vessel. Another large item is the amount expended by other ships to rush to her aid. Each line stands its own loss in the knowledge that in similar circumstances to one of its own ships others would rush to the scene regardless of cost.

Estimates may by the various lines follow:
The North German Lloyd liner Bertha, $1,000,000; Grace Line liner Santa Barbara, $5,000,000; Porto Rico liner San Juan, $2,000,000 and the Alcoa liner Merchant Line American Shipper, $2,500. A fair estimate for five other commercial vessels involved in rescue work might be $20,000.

This expense is mostly extra fuel burned, food consumed by rescued passengers, equipment lost and damaged and the cost of radio messages.

RECORDS SHOW SHIP IN GOOD CONDITION

Inspectors Who Boarded Vestris Before Sailing Found Everything O. K.

New York—(AP)—Records of the inspection of the Vestris made by three United States Department of Commerce inspectors and agents of Lloyd's, the English marine insurance organization, show the ship was regarded in perfect condition before she sailed.

The ship presumably was "gone" over from stem to stern, as the reports were made on boilers, engines, lifeboats and other lifesaving equipment, hull, plating, pumps, water tight doors, double bottom and watertightness of the ballast tanks.

The three United States inspectors were Edward F. Keane, in the service 17 years; F. N. Branning and Frederick L. Dennis. Keane and Branning both are licensed masters.

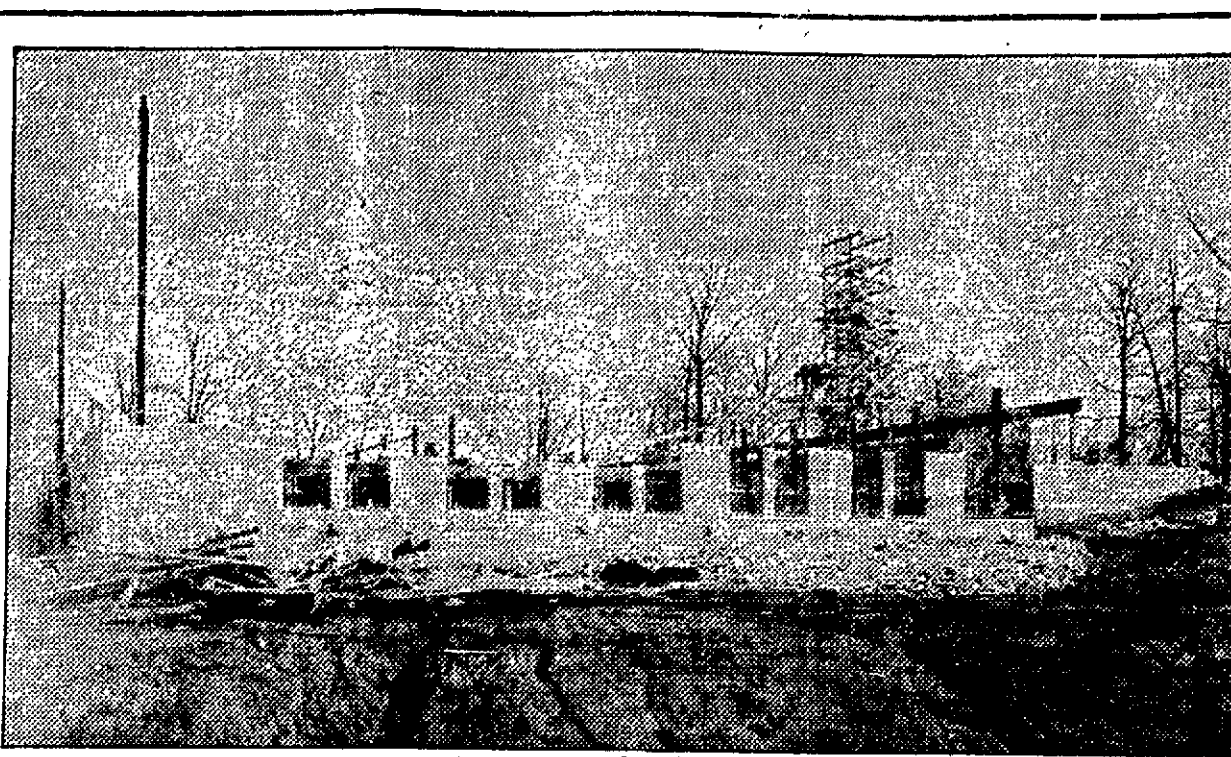

Keane said that to determine the efficiency of the lifeboats they were filled with stowaways and members of the crew and lowered to the water at the pier in Hoboken.

"There was not the slightest difficulty in accomplishing this," he said. "If the crew of the Vestris required two hours or more in getting the boats over, it was their inefficiency rather than the inefficiency or condition of the boats."

He said the Vestris had 14 lifeboats, two more than required by law.

ELKS PREPARE FOR SHARP TICKET SALE
Plans for the cleanup ticket campaign for the Elk charity show were completed at a meeting of show committee Wednesday evening at the Elk club. One of the largest sales in years is reported by workers this year, several special campaigns being carried out in mills and business houses. Proceeds from the Elk charity show are turned into the club charity fund and spent for Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets and for other charity purposes.

Lay Cornerstone of College Gymnasium

The cornerstone of the new gymnasium under construction at Lawrence college will be laid by Lewis M. Alexander, Port Edwards, president of the college board of trustees, Saturday afternoon a few minutes before the Lawrence-Carroll football game starts.

The program, although brief, will be a feature part of the Lawrence college homecoming over the weekend. Invocation will be said by Dr. J. A. Holmes of the Methodist Episcopal church. The contents of the box to be locked in the cornerstone will then be read and Dr. Henry Merritt Wriston will present a trowel to Mr. Alexander, who will lay the stone.

Treasure Hunt Arouses Interest Of Shoppers

Appleton has had its grab-bags, its sales contests, its one-cent sales, and its popularity contests, but never before has it had a contest that awakened as much interest as the treasure hunt which will be held on the evening of Nov. 21, under the auspices of the Appleton Advertising Club in cooperation with the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The hunt will be conducted in this manner. In the Wednesday edition of the Post-Crescent each subscriber with the exception of those who receive their papers through the mail, will find a number which may correspond with one of the 100 or more numbers posted in downtown store windows. Each person who locates a number in a store window which corresponds with number in his Post-Crescent, will present his paper to the merchant and receive the prize offered by that merchant. If the prize is not claimed on the night of the hunt, it will be held until the owner calls for it.

Plans are being made to have a band and a Santa Claus on College-ave to add spirit to the treasure hunt.

DEAF MUTE BEGGAR ATTACKS BLIND MAN; IT'S ALL A MISTAKE

Iron Belt, Wis.—(AP)—The lame may lead the blind, but Iron Belt cites a case of a deaf and dumb man attacking a blind man.

John Hardy, 65, whose sight was impaired several years ago, was eating his evening meal at Iron Belt one night this week when he heard a knock at the door. Because he can only recognize friends by their voices, Hardy asked who was at the door. When he did not receive an answer, he opened the door. A slip of paper was handed to him, but immediately snatched back by the donor.

Hardy closed the door but was again summoned by a loud knocking. This time the stranger stepped in and Mr. Hardy seized him by the hand, hoping to recognize him by his features. The stranger struck Hardy on the face, inflicting a black eye and other injuries and then hastily retreated.

The day following the visit, Hardy related the occurrence to friends, who were mystified over the attack until they learned that a deaf and dumb man had been begging in the neighborhood and was making his wants known with a slip of paper. It is believed that the deaf and dumb man entered the Hardy home to beg and not knowing the Iron Belt man was blind, thought that he was being attacked. Hardy who lives alone, said that he could think of no motive for being attacked.

DISCUSSES TYPOGRAPHY WITH ADVERTISING MEN

M. E. Cartier, mechanical superintendent at the Appleton Post-Crescent, talked on typography as applied to newspaper advertising at the regular meeting of Appleton Advertising club at Conway hotel Thursday noon. Mr. Cartier spoke of the mechanics of advertising, of newspaper display, and pointed out to advertisers how they could be of service to the advertising compositors.

After the address Harvey Schintz demonstrated with two films the newest thing in color movies for the home. The treasure hunt to be sponsored during the Christmas opening by the Advertising club and the retail division of the chamber of commerce was discussed, as was the lighting system to be used on College-ave during the holiday season.

WORLD PRODUCTS IN NEW HOTEL

In a hotel now being constructed in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, the cement is from Germany, the piping from France, iron and pumps from Belgium, windows, doors, casements and sanitary fixtures from Brazil, and electrical equipment, elevators, boilers, door locks, scaffolding and concrete mixers from the United States.

The corporation operating the railways of Peru under condition that they be turned back to the government in 1955, has proposed terms for taking over the lines permanently.

ASK POLICE CHIEF TO SERVE WARRANT FOR MAN WHO DIED

Chief George T. Prim, in his many years as a police officer has had to serve warrants in more or less trying places and in some instances it has taken a long while. But Thursday the chief had a new one thrust upon him when he received a warrant to be served on a man who has been dead for two and half years.

The warrant was sworn out by J. G. Pfeil, city trustee officer, who charged the dead man had not sent his 15-year-old daughter to school regularly. The warrant now is in the municipal court reporter's office and whether it will be changed, and the girl's mother named in the case, is up to the trustee officer.

HONOR COURT PLAN IS PRESENTED TO SCOUT COMMITTEES

More Than 50 Attend Training Conference at Pythian Castle Thursday

The court of honor plan, permitting reviewing of Boy Scout tests by individual troop committees instead of by one board representing the entire council, was presented to troop committees by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, at a training conference at Pythian Castle hall Thursday evening. More than 50 troop committees were present.

The new plan, which met with general approval, consists of the organization of a committee for every troop in the valley council. Each committee will act as a reviewing and awarding body for its particular troop, and will pass upon scouts taking tests for class advancement or for merit badges. Hereafter a council board of review conducted one joint court of honor for all troops in the council.

In conducting the tests, troop committees were urged to pay particular attention to three points; namely, that the scout has properly passed his tests, that the scout can put his knowledge into practice, and that he develop character traits and habits which will help make a better man of him.

"Each individual test and part of the Scout program is developed, first on 'boy interest' and secondly on its character building values," Mr. Clark said. There is a definite 'aim' in each test which should be kept in mind by scoutleaders.

The aim of the various second and first class tests was outlined by Mr. Clark. He discussed elementary woodcraft, elementary campcraft, essentials of scoutcraft, and more advanced scoutcraft.

The program opened at 6:30 with a dinner, served by scouts from troops 2 and 3. Songs and game stunts followed the dinner. A ceremony was conducted by H. H. Brown, scoutmaster of troop 2, in which a second class rating and James Gochbauer to a first class rating. Both scouts are from troop 2. A talk by Dr. J. A. Helmes, troop committee meetings, and an open forum concluded the program.

LARCENY CASE AGAINST GIRL IS HELD OPEN

No disposition was made of the case of a 16-year-old Kaukauna girl charged with larceny when she was brought before Judge Fred V. Heinemann, in juvenile court Friday morning. The case was held open for several days pending further investigation.

The girl employed in two Appleton homes as a maid, is alleged to have taken an umbrella and a watch from one employer and cloth for dresses from another. The watch was recovered by Sergeant Detective Matthew McGinnis. The case, originally taken into municipal court, was transferred to juvenile court when it was found the girl was not of legal age.

To stem the tide of tramps that have filled the Horncastle, England, jail to overflowing, the guardians of the place have reduced the number of blankets issued to each man.

DAHOMEY DYNASTY DIES

With the burial at Bordeaux, France, recently, of Prince Ouanilo Behanzin, son of a former king of Dahomey, the negro dynasty ended. Dahomey, as a negro state in West Africa, was a despotic monarchy until the French occupied it. It was once a flourishing slave market, and many human sacrifices were offered there annually.

GENERAL BUILDS OWN ROAD

Because there were no highways over which he could drive his new automobile, Tsao Chisum, as governor of the province of Kweichow, China, started an extensive road-building program. With the aid of his soldiers and about 50,000 civilians he constructed a macadamized road extending about 150 miles northward from the capital of Kweichow.

LABOR CODE FOR MEXICO OUTLINED BY NEW CHIEFTAIN

Sets Minimum Wage and Annual Vacations With Pay—Hopes for Approval

Mexico City—(AP)—A minimum wage and annual vacations with pay would be assured workers Mexico under a labor code which Emilio Portes Gil, Mexico's incoming president, intends to submit to congress. Other provisions of the code include:

- Compulsory arbitration of labor disputes.
- Restriction of labor by minors and women.
- An eight hour day and a six day week.
- Conscription of labor in case of national need.
- The abolition of saloons and gambling houses in labor centers.

Senior Portes Gil, who now is secretary of interior, placed his proposals before the congress of workers and employers. He said they represented his own ideas and those of the late President-elect Alvaro Obregon.

The minimum wage would be fixed in accordance with the cost of living in addition to annual vacations with pay. The workers would have four annual holidays.

The right to strike would be recognized, but violence forbidden. Each plant would have an arbitration tribunal composed of an equal number of representatives of workers and employers.

Such disputes as the company courts were unable to settle would go to municipal courts of three members. There would be a central arbitration board in each state capital. The nation would be divided into six districts with a labor tribunal in each district.

At the peak of the system of appellate tribunals would be a national court of labor with five magistrates named by the president. Children under 12 years of age would be forbidden to work. Women and minors under 16, except menials, would not be allowed to work more than six hours daily and never after 10 o'clock at night.

Women about to become mothers would be forbidden physical exertion three months before childbirth. They would be entitled to full wages for one month after childbirth.

Every able-bodied citizen would have to learn a trade or profession and work at it at least one year. Seventy per cent of the workers in every factory would have to be Mexicans and only Spanish-speaking persons would be allowed to occupy executive posts.

Saloons and gambling houses would be forbidden in labor centers.

ON-WORLD TOUR AT 76

Professor Bernard Freeman, a well-known traveler and journalist and Fellow of the Australian Journalists' Association, recently arrived in Singapore, Straits Settlements, from Java on a world tour. He is 76 years old, but is vigorous and as enthusiastic as ever in his efforts toward his hobby, which is the unity of the English-speaking peoples.

POLICE ARREST 11 FOR VIOLATING CITY TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

Seven Pay Fines in Crusade to Compel Obedience of Traffic Regulations

Continuing their drive to educate motorists to obey city parking regulations Appleton police Wednesday and Thursday arrested 11 drivers and seven were taken into municipal court on various charges and fined by Judge Theodore Berg. Four are to appear in court Friday afternoon.

Police Chief George T. Prim said his officers would continue their drive against offenders until the laws are observed. Among the charges against those arrested were: parking more than six inches from curbing; failure to keep in parking stalls on College-ave; parking in front of driveway; parking in alley; parking in restricted zone at corner; parking too close to fire plug; speeding; reckless driving, and having insufficient brakes.

Those arrested and fined: Clarence Wirtz, 814 W. Fourth-st., $10 and costs for reckless driving, arrested by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer.

Harold Kowalko, 1417 W. Second-st., $10 and costs for having inefficient brakes, arrested by Gus Hersekorn, motorcycle officer.

G. W. Rastede, 104 E. College-ave, parking in front of driveway on College-ave, arrested by Officer Albert Delgen.

Frank M. Sager, 543 N. Durkee-st. and J. A. Panneck, 513 W. Bateman-st., arrested by Officer Hersekorn for parking in restricted zone at corner. Fined $1 and costs.

I. J. Werner, 1218 N. Appleton-st. and John Rock, 1005 E. Pacific-st., arrested by Officer Hersekorn for parking out of parking stalls on College-ave. Each fined $1 and costs.

The following are to appear in court Friday afternoon: Harry Hoover, 501 E. Cherry-st., Green Bay, arrested on a charge of speeding 41 miles an hour on E. Wisconsin-ave by Officer Arndt.

Joseph Mallory, 207 E. College-ave, arrested by Officer Arndt on a charge of parking in the alley between Morrison and Durkee-sts.

R. H. Pfanz, 317 E. Lincoln-st., arrested by Officer Arndt on a charge of parking more than six inches from the curbing.

O. W. Shierburne, 814 N. Fox-st., arrested by Officer Arndt on a charge of parking within 15 feet of a fire hydrant.

TWO DELEGATES ATTEND CHURCH CONFERENCE

The Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Franz and Simon Wehrman of this city were among the 50 delegates at the annual spiritual conference at the Reform church near Van Dyne on Thursday. The Rev. William Oelrich is pastor of the Van Dyne and Oshkosh Reformed churches.

The program opened at 9:30 in the morning with devotions led by the Rev. Paul Stange of Oshkosh. Other speakers during the day were the Rev. E. Worthman of Kaukauna, the Rev. E. Buehrer of Green Bay, Dr. E. G. Krampe of Plymouth and Professor F. Grepher, also of Plymouth. Professor Grepher led devotions after dinner in place of the Rev. Victor Grosshuesch, who was unable to be present.

All delegates were entertained at dinner and supper in the homes of Van Dyne parishioners.

NICARAGUANS INVITE FORD TO GROW RUBBER

Managua, Nicaragua. —(P)—The chamber of commerce, industry and agriculture of Leon, a city of 49,000 inhabitants, has sent an invitation to Henry Ford to establish rubber plantations on a large scale in Nicaragua.

This action followed publication of reports that Ford would develop rubber plantations in Brazil. The invitation stressed the fact that Nicaragua was closer to the United States than was Brazil and that the projected construction of a Nicaraguan canal promised important commercial development of the country.

SHED BURNS
The fire department was called out about 7:40 Friday morning when spontaneous combustion set fire to a shed at 319 E. Wisconsin-ave. The shed is owned by Mrs. Amelia Grunst. After a few minutes the fire was put out and no serious damage resulted.

Rain tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

General Weather.
Another low pressure, or storm, area is developing this morning over the central and southern plains states, with considerable rain reported over the central valleys. This "low" appears ready to move northward, which would bring its pass close enough to this section to cause cloudy and rainy weather here tonight and Saturday. While it will cause moderate to mild temperatures over the central valleys, it is not expected to approach close enough to cause material temperature changes here.

Beery recently flew one of his planes from Hollywood to Jackson's Hole, Wyo., to make a hunting trip.

HUNTER IS HELD AS PARTNER'S SLAYER

ing trips, the sheriff's office refused to let the matter rest with the coroner's verdict.

An investigation was launched by Sheriff John W. Johnson and Under-Sheriff William Hornbrook, aided by Isaac Chouinard, Ironwood's director of public safety.

They learned that Ethier had accompanied Johnson on the fatal hunt and also that Ethier had cashed a check for $540, made payable to him and Johnson for timber cutting after the latter's death.

SHOT FROM CLOSE RANGE
Careful examination of the scene of the shooting revealed that a wad from a .12 gauge shotgun had fallen not 10 feet from where Johnson's body was found. After the body was exhumed Tuesday, it was also disclosed that the man had been killed by fine shot fired at a range of less than 12 feet.

Sheriff Johnson of Cogebe-co, said Friday that Ethier helped to fix suspicion on himself through bringing a dog to him which he hinted might have been lost by hunters who did the shooting.

The sheriff said Ethier also told him that a "couple of Italians" had been hunting in the vicinity of the tract where Johnson's body was found four days after the shooting. The sheriff took the dog but he said it only helped fasten suspicion on Ethier.

Ethier's preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Kranet of Kenosha are visiting friends here.

Stern Says He Now Feels Ten Years Younger

"Sargon is Wonderful—There is No Doubt About That", Says Mayor Shoe Co. Employee.

Statement after statement is being made in connection with Sargon, the celebrated new medicine that is accomplishing such remarkable results in Milwaukee and other leading cities.

Charlie Stern, of 151 Walnut-St., Milwaukee, for the past twenty years employed by the Mayer Boot & Shoe Co., nationally known manufacturers of footwear, and a member of the Old Settlers Club, said:

"I had been in poor health for three years. My troubles started with chronic constipation, and I was continually taking harsh purgatives and laxatives trying to overcome it. Later, I began to suffer from indigestion and stomach disorders. I was nervous and often had blind, dizzy spells, when everything before my eyes would turn dark. This was a great handicap to me in my work, which at all times requires a clear vision.

"My appetite was failing, and nearly always after I ate heavy foods of any kind, I would have attacks of indigestion and gas pains. Often I had severe pains in my side and back. I became so weak and rundown I just had to drag myself about.

"Before I had finished my first bottle of Sargon I noticed a change in my condition. My appetite increased and I began to feel better all over. I have now taken three bottles, and I am like a brand new man. I am no longer nervous, and the indigestion, gas pains and dizzy spells have entirely disappeared. I am no longer troubled with pains in my side or back. I have more energy than I have had in years. In fact, I really feel about ten years younger.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills have entirely rid me of constipation. They are gentle and thorough in action. What I like about them most is that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine.

"The Sargon treatment is wonderful, there's no doubt about that. Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store."

MANY SHOOTING STARS VISIBLE THIS MONTH

Williams Bay.—(P)—A date of 33 years standing with a cluster of heavenly debris is being kept by the earth, according to Dr. Edwin B. Frost, director of Yerkes observatory.

Dr. Frost with his staff has been conducting a nightly vigil in which he and members of his staff count the meteors flashing to destruction across the sky. These are the shooting stars which have been visible in the sky.

Wednesday and Thursday night the staff counted about 40 per hour. The sky was very cloudy Thursday night.

Dr. Frost explained that the material which furnishes the meteors is a cluster or swarm of cold rock-like substance which revolves about the sun in an orbit. Each November this cluster and the earth, the astronomer said, are sufficiently close to each other so that some of the meteors may desert the main body and plunge through the earth's atmosphere. In their plunge they travel about 26 miles a second. The earth travels about 19 miles a second.

Astronomers are taking advantage this year of an opportunity to observe this astral phenomena, an opportunity which comes once in 33 years.

SPORTS NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA SOCIETY

LETTERS ARE AWARDED TO GRID PLAYERS

20 Letters, Six N. A. A.'s and 11 Numerals Presented to Gridders

Neenah—Twenty letters, six N. A. A.'s and 11 numerals were presented to high school football players at general assembly at the school Friday afternoon by Coach Ole Jorgenson. Letters are awarded to players who participated in a majority of the games, N. A. A.'s are awarded for playing in a few games, and numerals are given to players who reported regularly for practice but did not get into any of the games.

Those receiving letters were Schneller, captain; L. Neubauer, Ehlers, Nye, Hahl, O. Neubauer, Beisenstein, Gallmeier, Shea, Therman, Blank, Hewitt, Clough, Jensen, Grogan, Fahrerkrug, Bell, Thomsen, Quayle, Hanson and manager Boelter. The N. A. A.'s were given to G. Johnson, O'Brien, Severson, Jorgenson, Olson and Fisher. The numerals, donated by the class in which the receiver is a member, were given to Donovan, 1931; F. Olson, 1930; Reykold, 1930; E. Toepfer, 1930; C. Toepfer, 1932; Barnes, 1931; Palmback, 1932; Koerwitz, 1931; Wraze, 1930; Lester, 1931 and Owens, 1932.

Coach Jorgenson, during his announcements of sport activities, stated that he had scheduled nine basketball games for his second team this season, something which has never been done here before. The second team will be composed of underclassmen, no seniors, and every man must be eligible the same as those on the first team. Harry Fautz, with four years coaching experience, will have charge of this part of winter athletics.

The games will be Dec. 12, Shawano at Shawano; Dec. 14, Appleton at Neenah; Jan. 4, Kaukauna here; Jan. 11, Sturgeon Bay here; Jan. 18, Menasha here; Jan. 25, Appleton at Appleton; Feb. 1, Kaukauna at Kaukauna; Feb. 22, Menasha at Menasha; March 1, Two Rivers here.

Coach Jorgenson was at Green Bay Thursday evening to attend a meeting of the Northwestern Wisconsin Interscholastic conference at which the football schedule for next year was adopted. The Neenah team will play four home games, three out of town games, and still has an open date. The season will open Sept. 23 with De Pere to come to Neenah; Oct. 12, Neenah will go to Seymour; a new school in the conference, Oct. 19, Neenah will go to Kaukauna; Oct. 26, New London will come to Neenah; Nov. 2, Neenah goes to Two Rivers; Nov. 9 is open and on Oct. 16 Menasha will come to Neenah.

Debate schedules, according to C. F. Hedres, who also attended the Green Bay meeting, have not as yet been completed but will be forwarded here within the next few weeks.

LEAGUE LEADERS ARE BUMPED IN TWO GAMES

Neenah—Hotel Menasha team of the Ladies' Afternoon league, took a bump Thursday, when the Chums took two games from the leaders. Island Drugs took two from the Pin Busters. Mrs. Murrell was again the star of the afternoon, getting high single game with 173 and also high series with 459. The Chums played high team game on a count of 744 followed by the Island Drugs with 728.

Neenah—The jury in the case of Joe Engman and Mary Engman versus E. S. Nelson and others, on Thursday, returned a special verdict in the damage suit resulting from an auto accident in which the Engman and Nelson cars collided on highway 26 west of Neenah, holding that Nelson had failed to exercise ordinary care, that the injuries to plaintiffs was a natural and probable result of said failure and that he ought to have foreseen that his jury to somebody might follow. The jury also proceeded to find the same with regard to Joe Engman, driver of the other car.

A total of $16,500 damages had been asked. The jury found that $1,000 would reasonably compensate Mrs. Engman for her injuries, $650 would compensate Joe Engman for damages to his car, $750 for his personal injuries and $449.80 for his expenses in medical treatment and damages to his and his wife's clothing.

GIRL WINS PRIZE IN CUB THEME CONTEST

Neenah—Grace Gruenwald received first prize in the theme writing contest sponsored by the High school Cub. Viola Hellerman was second, and Jeanette Luebben, third. The prizes were awarded to the persons presenting the best theme concerning the advertisements appearing in the last issue of the Cub. The Cub staff is happy over the announcement that it will have a special room all its own in the new high school building which is under construction.

COMMON COUNCIL WILL MEET NEXT TUESDAY

Neenah—The monthly meeting of the common council will be held Tuesday evening.

SALESMAN GUILTY OF REFUSING AID

Fond du Lac Man Awaits Sentence for Failing to Help Injured Person

Neenah—Carl Krueger, Fond du Lac salesman, formerly of Neenah, charged with failure to stop and give aid after striking and injuring a person on the highway, was found guilty by a jury in circuit court at Fond du Lac Tuesday afternoon. The jury was out less than 10 minutes.

Krueger, according to information, was the driver of a truck which struck and severely injured John Seidl of Luxemburg, on Highway 41 just north of Fond du Lac, Sept. 21. After it had knocked Seidl down, Krueger's car, according to the testimony, ran down the highway for approximately 600 feet and crashed into a telephone pole.

Krueger was arrested 15 minutes later while bathing a wound in a nearby farmhouse. His defense was that he had intended to turn around but was prevented from doing so by the accident to his truck and injuries to himself.

The offense carries a fine not to exceed $1,000 and imprisonment for three months to two years.

NEENAH PERSONALS

Miss Linda Eake submitted to an operation Thursday at Theda Clark hospital for appendicitis. James Christofferson of Chicago is spending a few days here with relatives.

A son was born Thursday at Theda Clark hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stacker of Menominee Falls. Albert Kucklenbecker, route 9, had his tonsils removed Thursday at Theda Clark hospital.

Martha Urban of Menasha is at Theda Clark hospital for treatment. Ira Barben, Menasha, is at Theda Clark hospital for treatment.

Herman Asmus has gone to Amherst to spend the remainder of the week hunting.

SENIORS, SOPHS VICTORIOUS IN CAGING TOURNEY

Junior Sophomore Struggle Is Close, Former Winning by One Point

Neenah—The seniors defeated the Freshmen 30 to 13 and the Juniors defeated the Sophomores 28 to 27 Thursday afternoon in the annual inter-class basketball tournament which opened basketball activities at the high school. In the first game, the Seniors got away to a good start and held a wide margin over the "Infants" throughout the entire game. Stacker, at center, who is the eligible for a berth on the school team, was principle scorer with 16 points. Edward Neubauer was the high scorer on the freshman team with seven points.

In the second game, Leonard Neubauer, a new comer, headed the list of scorers by registering eight baskets for the Sophomore team and is also mentioned as a likely candidate for a place on the first team squad. Bell, center for the seniors, tallied 15 points for the juniors by making six baskets and three free throws, and will be on the No. 1 squad this season.

PRESIDENT-ELECT LIKES HIS JOKES, ANECDOTES PROVE

Herbert Hoover Is Not as Devoid of Humor as Some People Believe

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — To get a complete understanding of a famous man you must read the anecdotes that have clustered about him during his public career.

Herbert Hoover is not, just now, the subject of as many little stories as he undoubtedly will be a year later. But even so there is a fairly sizable collection of yarns, humorous and otherwise, which have him as the central figure. Since they are interesting and afford valuable side lights on the character of America's next president, some of them are recounted here.

First of all, there is Hoover's own favorite—a story that concerns a wartime crossing of the English channel on a boat which, as usual was menaced by mines and submarines. Hoover was accustomed to square accounts with the steward at the end of the voyage, but on this occasion the steward came to him as the boat left the dock and said:

"I'm sorry, sir but we may be sunk at any moment, so I must collect after each meal."

"Every time I think of that story it seems funnier," says Hoover.

Then there is the story, quite widely known, about something that happened during the Mississippi flood relief work. Hoover was stopping at an ancient hotel in a small southern town. As he ordered his meal, he told the old colored waiter to bring his coffee without cream. The waiter hesitated a moment, and then said:

"Sorry, boss, Ah can't give you no coffee without cream because we ain't got no cream—but Ah can give you coffee without milk!"

IS DEXLY HUMOROUS

Although Hoover is not known as a humorist of the Lincoln type, he has a certain dry sense of humor. A reporter entered his office a few months ago and found Hoover puffing on a cigar.

"Some of the politicians say you never smoked a cigar in your life," said the reporter.

Hoover studied his cigar for a moment.

"Well," he replied, at length, "maybe they're right."

The Mississippi flood relief work brings another.

One night, Hoover says, he asked his assistant, George Akerson, to telephone a certain town up the river and see whether the flood had reached it yet. Akerson got the call through, but raised only a man who was nearly stone deaf.

"Any water there?" asked Akerson.

"Can't hear you," replied the man at the other end of the wire.

"Mr. Hoover wants to know if your main street is under water."

"Can't hear you."

Akerson fairly screamed the words into the telephone. They had no effect. Then, after a moment, the voice at the other end said:

"Hester, if you'll hold on here a few minutes I'll get out my staff and row over to the co'house and bring back somebody that can hear better."

It doubtless will disturb somebody somewhere, to learn that Hoover occasionally uses such cuss words as "hell," for all his Quakerism. The incident wherein he told a German baron, associated with him in food relief after the war, to "go to hell," is fairly well known. Earl Reeves, a Hoover biographer, gives another.

Shortly after the war someone found Hoover pacing his office floor restlessly, and asked him what he was doing.

"I'm trying to keep the bills out of Uncle Sam's pockets," said Hoover, "and it's a hell of a job."

Some of the anecdotes of Hoover's boyhood are fairly well known.

There is, for instance, the story of the time that creditors of Hoover's Uncle John's law company held an indignation meeting at the company office. When they became angry and abusive, young Herbert jumped up and turned out the lights, forcing them to disperse.

"They were only running up the gas bill," he said, "and there was no use in that kind of talk."

DOESN'T LIKE WASTE

When a boy in West Branch, Hoover once told a playmate that he

GIRLS PRACTICING FOR DECLAMATORY CONTEST

The five Appleton high school girls who will appear in the George Dame declamatory contest Nov. 23, at the high school have chosen their subjects and are coaching daily with Miss Ruth McKennan. The winner of the contest will receive the George Dame award and will be Appleton's representative in the Fox River Valley contest at West Green Bay high school Dec. 7.

Miss Ruth Cohen has chosen Dark of the Dawn by Beulah Dix; Miss Dorothy Davis will give Eyes of the Blind by Adelle Rogers St. John; Miss Helen Snyder, The Homeland by Mabel Shepard; Miss Jean Shannon, Tradition by George Middleton and Miss Betty Meyer, The Lord's Prayer by Francois Coppee.

believed in God and heaven, but not in hell.

"What would you do with the sunners?" asked the playmate.

"Send them to heaven," said little Herbert. "What's the use of burning them all up?"

His hatred of waste apparently began early in life.

Many years ago, when Hoover was working as disbursement officer for the Geological Survey in the Rockies and was trying to save from his $45 a month salary enough money to help him return to college in the fall, a horse turned up party by the government. Hoover knew that if he could not properly explain the animal's demise he would be assessed $110. So, after much thought he wrote the comptroller general that the animal had tried to scratch its head with a hind foot and in the effort had broken its neck. The story failed to go over; the comptroller general doubted that any horse anywhere would dream of trying such a thing. But to this day Hoover believes he would have been all right if he had simply written that the horse died of a broken neck, and that not tried to explain how it had been broken.

Hoover greatly enjoys motoring, and, if left alone, is a good driver. But if he gets talking to someone else in the front seat he forgets about the automobile, and either drives at a snail's pace or at a race track speed, depending on the tempo of the conversation. For this reason, the rest of the family does not care greatly about having him drive.

DIVORCES HAVE FUTURE INTEREST

High Rate of Separations
Must Be Settled by Future Generations

Kansas City —(AP)—"Home economics of the future will be interested in our divorce records of today inquiring why we have twice as many divorces as 20 years ago, and four times as many as 60 years ago," Miss Lita Bane, assistant professor of home economics and household management expert at the University of Wisconsin, said in an address before the Missouri State Teachers association here Thursday. She spoke on Home Economics Today and Tomorrow.

The future would attempt to solve the high divorce rate, she said and the causes lie in four directions, she pointed out. A failure to meet responsibilities by the wife; a need of more thorough training, in home-making, a need for special training or the fact that the woman must be a professional home-maker as a man is trained for a profession seem to be evident solutions, Miss Bane said.

To be a good housewife, and an efficient one, too, the speaker said a woman must be trained to be an intelligent buyer of goods, she must know the needs and tastes of her family, she must know the size of the family income and when it is available, she must understand her local markets, and "above all" she must be able to "shop."

Miss Bane emphasized the need of the housewife "shopping" around in order to buy cheaply and not to make her purchases at the first shop she visits.

"One of the most important functions of home economics, both for today or tomorrow, it seems to me," Miss Bane said, "is to give to the students an insight into the significance of the home in its influence on the family and its responsibility to the community."

In her address, Miss Bane outlined the growth and history of the American Home Economics association, pointing out how in 20 years time, the membership has increased from 830 to 9,251 members.

Wettengel Gets Wire From President-Elect

F. F. Wettengel, acting postmaster and one of Wisconsin's 13 electors who will cast the state's official ballot for Herbert C. Hoover for president, has received a letter from the president-elect thanking him for a congratulatory message sent by Mr. Wettengel to Mr. Hoover the day after the election.

Mr. Wettengel prizes his letter from Mr. Hoover highly and intends to have it framed and hung in a conspicuous place in his home. Mr. Hoover thanks the postmaster for his message and expresses his appreciation for the service which Mr. Wettengel and his colleagues gave to the Republican party.

Following is a copy of the letter which Mr. Wettengel sent to the president-elect, and the answer Mr. Wettengel received:

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 7, 1928
Hon. Herbert Clark Hoover,
President-Elect, Palo Alto, Calif.

As the Republican elector for the Ninth congressional district of Wisconsin I desire to convey to you in behalf of my constituents and myself our most hearty congratulations upon your election, Wisconsin has had an awakening politically which will be a blessing to ourselves and to our posterity. Under your leadership and guidance the American people will come into their birthright.

(Signed) Fred Felix Wettengel,
Stanford University, Calif.,
Nov. 8, 1928.

Mr. Fred F. Wettengel,
Appleton, Wis.
Dear Mr. Wettengel:—
I am grateful for your message. I wish to express my appreciation for the service which you and your colleagues have given to the great cause of the Republican Party and the friendship you have shown to me.

With kind regards, I am
Yours faithfully,
(signed) Herbert Hoover.

HERE ARE DATES FOR CHRISTMAS MAILING

As an aid to Appleton residents who are planning to send Christmas mail to relatives or friends in foreign countries, F. F. Wettengel, acting postmaster, has prepared a list of countries and the date by which the material must be dispatched from New York city in order to reach the destination in time for Christmas.

Mr. Wettengel has urged Appleton people to mail as early as possible this year to prevent congestion in the mails just before Christmas.

Following is a list of the countries to which many Appleton persons send mail and the date by which the mail must leave New York city for a timely arrival at the destination:

Austria, Dec. 8; Belgium, Dec. 14; Cuba, Dec. 22; Czechoslovakia, Dec. 12; Denmark, Dec. 13; England, Dec. 14; France, Dec. 14; Germany, Dec. 14; Greece, Dec. 8; Hungary, Dec. 13; Ireland (Northern), Dec. 14; Irish Free State, Dec. 14; Italy, Dec. 11; Japan, Dec. 2; Lithuania, Dec. 8; Luxembourg, Dec. 12; Netherlands, Dec. 14; Newfoundland, Dec. 19; Norway, Dec.

WORKING OUT THE PROHIBITION PROBLEM

Now that first emotions have died down and hurried explanations of the election have had a chance to be soberly revised, what inferences are really to be drawn as to prohibition? The Anti-Saloon league, of course, asserts that a dry America has been confirmed without reservation. The wets while denying this take a philosophic view and await better days.
The extent to which prohibition determined the result is a debatable question, just as are other issues and circumstances. Our opinion is that a majority of the people in almost every state are opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Most of the referendums which have indicated a predominating wet sentiment have related to modification of the enforcement act, which in no wise involved an expression on the eighteenth amendment and which as a matter of fact indicated no definite policy. We think the election shows that the people believe prohibition should be given a further trial, and that they would be reluctant to give it up until its failure has been conclusively demonstrated.

It may be argued that the evils complained of are more likely to improve than to grow worse. Parents will eventually assert themselves more to protect their children and bring them up properly, and youth itself will discover the folly of dissipation. The normal instincts of a human being are those of self-respect rather than degradation. This flaming up of youth that causes so much social and parental anguish, (a good measure of which anguish is insincere and a pretense) will in time flame itself out. If youth cannot be brought up to resist drink temptation it is not of the fiber that very well resists any temptation. There are causes for the alleged social depravity directly traceable to other sources than prohibition and not a few of them go to the home itself. As for the older generation, it will to an increasing extent get tired of drinking benzene, ether and nitro-glycerine merely because it is labeled "Green River Bourbon" or "Black and Blue Scotch." The suicide mania has a strong hold, but after a while people get tired of killing themselves. It is a useless occupation.

No one knows just how the prohibition problem is to be solved. Much as it may be ridiculed, the eighteenth amendment is a very brief experiment. Many of the effects are deplorable. The evils it has produced are real and grave. It will take time to determine what is best to be done, and probably it is better to feel our way. People who recall the viciousness of the unregulated liquor traffic for generations will be extremely slow to take any steps that might bring it back. They know that liquor obeys no laws and submits to no regulation. They do not want to see it restored to its old time power in politics and government, for whatever social evils we may suffer from prohibition that phase of the liquor traffic was infinitely worse. We do not want to go back to distillery-brewery-saloon owned and controlled local government.

We believe the adoption of the eighteenth amendment was a mistake, both as an unwarranted invasion of personal liberty and fundamental perversion of the constitution, but adopted it was, and we have to make the best of it. Having taken this step it is impossible to rectify it by repeal. That would be suicidal. So much water has gone over the dam in the meantime that the nation could not possibly go back to the conditions that existed before prohibition, although admittedly they were becoming daily more wholesome and offered a sane prospect of real temperance.

The whole picture has changed and to break down the constitutional barrier we have set up would unquestionably bring chaos and the most disorderly consequences. That is one of the reasons why a majority of the people will not at this time give repeal even a serious thought.

The prospect, therefore, is that whatever the solution, it must be worked out under the eighteenth amendment, at least for many years to come. Governor Smith's proposal for state regulation while popular with the uncompromising wets is not likely to be popular with the number of states requisite to a change in the eighteenth amendment. On the other hand, modification of the Volstead act within the constitution will give very little relief, even under the most liberal interpretation, to those who want alcoholic beverages for the sake of having them. It may not give even 2 per cent beer, for modification not only has to pass congress, but the supreme court as well, and the latter would not subscribe to a dishonest standard even if a legislative measure attempted to do so.

Under all the circumstances it would seem that it is up to the American people for the next four or eight years to suppress their resentment against prohibition and join with the government at Washington in a rational course of action for enforcement and a bonafide try-out of this colossal experiment before again asking for a change, in order that when the time comes, if it does, it may be helpful and constructive. Not much is to be gained by butting the head against a stone wall unless one relishes bruises and sores. Neither it is a very intelligent procedure. While the eighteenth amendment is a severe challenge to our sense of justice and freedom, it is a greater challenge to our self-control and mentality. If "relief" is to be had and modification is to come, it should be born of reason and sober judgment and not of explosives and bitterness.

NAVAL EXPANSION

The president's Armistice Day speech has given impetus to the sentiment favoring enactment of the pending cruiser bill. The program calls for the building of twenty-five additional 10,000 ton cruisers during the next eight years, which would give us a flat total of 43 cruisers. This would not raise our naval strength on paper quite to that of Great Britain, which is not the particular thing to be desired after all. It would give us, in the opinion of naval experts, adequate home defense, which is the real end to be sought.

So long as other nations fail or refuse to reduce armament it is incumbent upon the United States to preserve a military establishment that will insure our security. Any program authorized can of course be discontinued should there be a change of heart in Europe. Our resolution to approve no makeshift disarmament, but to insist upon a bonafide reduction of naval craft if anything is done, seems to be getting under the skin of Great Britain at least. Dispatches this week state that under the fire of Lloyd George's criticism the government is prepared to abandon the secret naval pact with France. This course we have insisted upon as a sine qua non to a resumption of disarmament conferences.

The United States can afford better than any other nation to go to extremes in military preparedness and it can also afford better than others to keep its military establishment at the lowest level consistent with safety. It had hoped that before further expansion of the navy would be necessary, Europe could be induced to enter into an undertaking for genuine naval reduction. This has not occurred, and there now seems to be no alternative but to proceed with the president's suggestion to look after our own affairs for the time being and let the rest of the world go its way.

A WHOLE SKIN IS A SAFE BARRIER

Dr. Alice Hamilton is today recognized as the foremost authority on industrial poisons in the United States. This distinguished physician is a pretty satisfactory answer to a question, one sometimes hears even today, namely, can a woman attain eminence in medical science?
"Taking off with the acknowledgment that Hamilton believes and teaches that such poisons as lead, benzol or anilin derivatives such as phenyladamin (a dye sometimes used for furs and even for hair dye), and phenol may be absorbed through the skin, I wish to quote a few passages from her work.
"The field which still awaits a thorough exploration is the pathological physiology and chemistry of lead poisoning, the exact mode of absorption of lead."
Much work has already been done in this field, but with results which are more or less contradictory and unconvincing.
Dr. Hamilton covers the ground thoroughly. She speaks of the work of a French physician named Tanquerel who studied industrial lead poisoning a century ago and has been called the "Columbus of lead poisoning." Tanquerel noticed that severe lead poisoning could always be traced to lead vapors or emanations, and only the mildest or slowest poisoning followed contact with solid lead or lead paint. He tried to settle the question by experimenting on dogs and rabbits, but he could not poison them with lead through the skin, and he was skeptical of the possibility of lead being absorbed through the unbroken skin. Although the author cites several other investigators who experimented with animals, and among them some who believed they had proved that traces of lead are absorbed through the unbroken skin, none of these witnesses can stand in court today, for none of them absolutely excludes the possibility of the skin being treated with it. Nevertheless Dr. Hamilton maintains that painters, whose hands and forearms are smeared with white lead in oil for eight hours a day and throughout the greater part of the year may be assumed to absorb from the skin quantities of lead which are probably very small, but which throughout the years slowly accumulate in the skeleton.

Certainly painters absorb the lead, but are they not exposed, at least now and then, to inhalation or swallowing of dust, as when sandpapering or scraping old paint, or fumes, as when burning off old paint? I prefer Tanquerel's opinion to Hamilton's, about that. Tanquerel didn't assume anything; he tried to prove it and couldn't. Mind, I never heard of Tanquerel until Dr. Hamilton told me about his work.
"It is impossible to say," observes Dr. Hamilton, "how much of the lead poisoning of painters is caused by the lead paint which is so often smeared over their hands. We have some accustomed to assume that skin absorption is practically negligible as a mode of industrial poisoning, but the belief rests upon an assumption; it has never been proved."

Here Dr. Hamilton seems to turn the table on us. First she tells us the absorption of lead may be "assumed," and then she dashes cold water on the alternative assumption. After all, the doctor is a woman. Even so, I wish she'd tell us, in not to exceed a thousand words, how to go about proving a negative. Her argument here reminds me of a favorite refuge of the old timers who, when you get 'em cornered, demand that you prove that nobody ever has a "cold" after getting feet wet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Whether to Brush the Teeth
Of course I am not an authority, but my common sense tells me brushing the teeth cannot possibly do much good, for it seems to me that if one eats the proper food, the natural secretions of the mouth take care of a situation which the toothbrush is meant to correct. In your opinion is the use of the toothbrush likely to prevent or cure pyorrhea? Also how often should a person visit the dentist? (J. R.)
Answer—I believe the character of the food one receives in infancy and early adult life, is practically the only factor which determines the soundness of the teeth, and their preservation. I think massage of the gums by toothbrush or other means is of considerable value in many cases of pyorrhea; then, too, perhaps specific remedies, applied with the brush, as prescribed by the dentist, do much good. Well folk should visit the dentist for inspection and any necessary repairs at least twice a year.

Neglected Physical Education
I am a girl of 18, college freshman. I am getting stoop shoulders and it worries me. I suppose it is from studying so much. (Miss C. E.)
Answer—No, you can't blame it on too much education. It is rather due to neglect of an important part in education. Your schooling has not provided proper physical training, or maybe you have managed to dodge that part of your schooling. Is there no physical department in the college? There are too many colleges cultivating stoop shouldered corners of life. Now, then, if you can believe this scolding is kindly inspired, repeat your request and in due season I'll mail you instructions for correcting the stoop habit.

This Is Agar-rating
If a smooth diet is beneficial in constipation because there is little plant fiber to ferment then why is agar, which is usually included in such a diet, not likely to ferment as it is a plant fiber? In other words, what is the difference between plant fiber which is purgative and agar which is purgative? The plant fiber which is added in the form of agar? (J. M. H.)
Answer—That's really a $5 question, brother, and anyway, let the boys who are boosting the imported bird seed or the glorified oriental seaweed try to answer it. I can't.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Washington—Informal opinion in Washington anticipates the selection of Dwight Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, as secretary of state under President Hoover.
Many considerations will prompt the development, those in the know hold, although Mr. Hoover is decided to have gone through the campaign without having committed himself in advance in any way as to his cabinet selections.
MORROW TO SUCCEED KELLOGG?
Among compelling reasons for Morrow's probable promotion to head the cabinet is the belief that the Hoover administration will concentrate every effort on expansion of the Latin American market for American manufactured goods. Mr. Hoover is described as realizing fully the probability that he will have to deal with an industrial surplus as well as with the farm products surplus.
He gave indications frequently as secretary of commerce that he regarded South and Central America

FARM STORAGE FOR WHEAT
EDITOR POST-CRESCENT—The recent reports from Canada indicate an unusually heavy crop of wheat, and the farm deliveries are swamping Canadian elevators.

In order to meet the situation, the Saskatchewan wheat pool has offered a premium to the farmers who will store their wheat on their farms of one cent a bushel delivered after February first, two cents for March and three cents during the month of April. Just how this proposition is going to work out is a foregone conclusion apparently the storage of wheat is of vital importance to the producer. They must manage as far as possible in storing one very important point to be considered is it bankers could be induced to loan money on farm stored grain.

In this event bins of grain under the supervision of a bank could be sealed, and later broken open when the same supervision when it is desired to sell.

It would further appear that the bank could not render their services without a charge, but would their rate of charge be as much or any more than the elevators now charge for storage and perhaps sell immediately after storage takes place, though the expense of their storage must be paid by the producer. While this plan may appear quite feasible the producer must place an insurance on his grain in the bin before a loan can be made from the bank. We would imagine the above plan would be far superior to a government committee of 12 members at $10,000 per annum each just for the purpose of instructing the producer when where and for how much he must except for his wheat and be bound by that committee.
We do not hesitate for one moment in our belief that Canada's experience clearly if carried out will show that farm storage is absolutely a necessity, so far as the producer is able to hold his crop. The outcome should be carefully observed, by our American farmers.
W. M. Robles

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Must Teach Youth To Be For Dry Law

MISS BELLE ADY, state field worker of the Women's Christian Temperance union, presented a survey of the departmental work of the organization at the meeting of the Appleton chapter of the union Thursday afternoon at Emmanuel Evangelical church. She explained that the departmental work covers religious, welfare, educational and legislative activities. She especially stressed the importance of educational work and the necessity of getting the educational work into the schools and to the younger generation and said that upon the younger generation depends the upholding of the eighteenth amendment. The part of the W. C. T. U. played in the recent election and the effect the eighteenth amendment had upon the election was touched upon in the address.

Numbers of the program were a vocal duet by Miss Maud Harwood and Mrs. Cora Zylstra; a reading by Miss Lucille Welty; a piano solo by Miss Marjorie Polzin; and a violin solo by Miss Eloise Smeltzer accompanied by Russell Wichman, Miss Harwood and Mrs. Zylstra and Miss Smeltzer responded to each other. Fifty members were present at the meeting which was arranged by Mrs. Emma Hubbard, Mrs. O. Polzin and Miss Inez Gurnee. Out of town persons present were Mrs. J. J. Laird of Black Creek, Mrs. F. Wolf, Mrs. A. Keene, Miss E. Anderson, and Miss S. Hinman of Kaukauna. The next meeting of the Union will be at the home of Mrs. C. C. Nelson, N. Oneida-st. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul Radtke, Mrs. Phyllis Snyder, and Miss Christine Wolfmeyer.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

A "pot luck" lunch will be served at the First Baptist church Friday prior to the regular monthly meeting of the Sunday School cabinet. Mrs. P. Stallman, superintendent of the Sunday School, will be in charge of the meeting and Miss Lucille Zimmerman will make arrangements for the lunch.

The Rev. H. Cronrath and the Rev. E. Koch of Oshkosh, will be the speakers at the mission festival to be observed by First English Lutheran congregation next Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Cronrath will speak at the morning service at 10:30 and the Rev. Mr. Koch is scheduled to deliver the address at the evening service at 7:30. Appropriate anthems will be sung by the senior choir and special musical selections will be given by Miss Eleanor Voelck and Miss Janet Carnochan, violin, Miss Phoebe Nickel, cello and Miss Ramona Huesemann, piano. The public has been invited to the festival services.

Your Child and His Recreation was the subject of an address given by the Rev. F. L. Reuter Thursday afternoon at the meeting of the Ladies Missionary society of First English Lutheran church at the church. It is as necessary to supervise and direct the child's recreation and play as it is to care for his food, clothing and bodily habits, said the Rev. Mr. Reuter. Outstanding thoughts in the discussion were that the wise mother will be a pal rather than a watchman, and the relationship of a child and his mother, who is a pal to him, keeps the child and the home closer together. Suggestions offered to the mothers were that every mother should learn something of child psychology and should make the religious factor in the home interesting. The paramount necessity of knowing your child and to bring him up in the "nurture and admonition of the Lord" was emphasized.

The parish supper for members of All Saints Episcopal church will be given Thursday evening at the parish hall. The supper was previously announced for Wednesday evening. Arrangements for the supper are being made by the St. Agnes Guild.

The Light Bearers of First Methodist church will meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the junior room of the church. This will be the regular monthly meeting.

A cake sale will be given by the Ladies Aid society of St. Paul Lutheran church Saturday at Voigt's drug store. Arrangements for the sale were made at the regular meeting of the society the first Thursday in November.

The May group of First Methodist church will meet at 2:30 Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Martin, 520 E. North-st. Mrs. Frank Hyde is captain of the group.

Circle No. 7 of First Congregational church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Hammers, 533 N. Rankin-st. Twenty-six members were present and they sewed on aprons and made a quilt for the bazaar. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Horace Ward, Mrs. R. A. Buxton and Mrs. Warren Hinchcliff.

LIVED UNDER FIVE RULERS
Mrs. M. McKeown, who recently celebrated her one-hundredth birthday, boasts that she has lived under five sovereigns, George IV, William IV, Queen Victoria, Edward VII and the present King. She was able to read without glasses the letter of congratulations from the Bangor Borough Council. Mrs. McKeown is able to recite from memory a number of Psalms and Collects. She lives in Pessimo, Ireland.

FACTS ABOUT OUR FRATERNALS

This is the fifth of a series of thumbnail sketches about Fraternals in Appleton.

The Women of Mooseheart Legion was organized to support Mooseheart, a home for the children, and aged at Mooseheart, Ill., eighteen years ago on April 21, 1910. There were nineteen charter members and officers that first year were: past regent, Mary Zuchke; senior regent, Adora Hauert; junior regent, Julia Foreman; chaplain, Alma Herrick; recorder, Blanche Stillman; treasurer, Anita O'Connor; guide, Philippina Koch; sentinel, Helen M. Wenzel; argus, Esther Winter.

The first meeting place was in the old Castle hall and the meetings now are held in the Moose temple, corner of Morrison and North-sts. There are 102 members of the organization at the present time and officers are: past regent, Adora Hauert; senior regent, Margaret Ward; junior regent, Agnes Fredricks; chaplain, Mary O'Connor; recorder, Anita O. Blake; treasurer, Margaret McGregory; assistant guide, Martha Gehring; sentinel, Clara Kostitzke; argus, Gertrude Willardson; pianist, Evelyn Kreutzer.

PARTIES

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Handshoe, route 1, Hortonville, entertained several guests at dinner at 5 o'clock on Sunday. Dice, cards and music furnished the evening's entertainment. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Vedner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reller and son Willard, Waupaca; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jennerjahn, sons Harland, Carlton, and Junior, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. William Muller, son Lloyd and daughter Vera, Miss Winona Jennerjahn and Armon Dorfsterne, Hortonville.

Members of the sixth grade honor roll at the First Ward school entertained pupils of the fifth grade honor roll at a party at the school Tuesday afternoon. Piano selections, readings, jokes and riddles provided entertainment for the 42 pupils present.

Howard Horton was chairman of the entertainment committee, Dorothy Ward of the program committee, Geraldine Schmidt had charge of the refreshments, and Edwin Shannon was head of the cleanup committee. Misses Elsie Christensen and Agnes Jolin, fifth grade teachers, and Mrs. Mabel Johnson and Miss Selma Mallman were the faculty sponsors.

Fourteen girls became pledges of Sigma Alpha Iota, honorary musical sorority, following a formal banquet in the Crystal room of the Conway hotel Thursday evening. Three Appleton girls, Misses Lenora Huesemann, Lucille Latton, and Virginia Baker were included in the group. K. O. F. C. TOLD OF LEADERSHIP OF CATHOLIC MEN

Leadership of Catholic men in civic, social and religious fields was the subject of an address given by the Rev. J. Schaefer of Kaukauna Thursday night at the regular meeting of Knights of Columbus at Catholic home. The subject was approached from an historical viewpoint and did not include contemporary leaders. The Rev. Father Schaefer began with the leadership of Christopher Columbus and included some 30 prominent men in his survey. The part which Catholic men played in the world war and other wars of the nation was related and a number of great Catholic artists were mentioned in the address.

Sixty five members were present at the meeting. A report of the Knights of Columbus bowling tournament which will be held at Port Washington the last of January and the first of February was given. Plans were made for a new class of members and announcement of a meeting of the officers and membership committee on Nov. 23 was made. A lunch and social hour followed the business session.

11 Women At Annual Conference

Eleven Appleton women attended the second annual conference of the Green Bay Diocese Apostolate Thursday at Green Bay. They were Mrs. Otto Walter, Mrs. Gustave Keller, Mrs. Frank Glaser, Mrs. Leo Rechner, Mrs. Minnie Goenen, Mrs. John Roach, Sr. Miss Margaret McCormack, Mrs. Chris Hearden, Mrs. William Keller and Mrs. Irvin Hawley.

Official high mass was celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, D. D. Bishop of the Green Bay diocese. Bishop Rhode in welcoming the women congratulated the organization on the ideals of brotherly love. The Rev. J. J. O'Leary pastor of St. Francis Xavier church in his sermon, said the teaching of the Apostolate was love of God and love of fellowmen and the guiding principle and greatest wish of the organization was Christ's saying, "Do unto others as I have done unto you."

A report made at the conference showed a total of 165 units in the Apostolate with 110 units functioning at the present time, doing some kind of relief work. The program for the day included discussion of methods of handling charity work, the relation between the Diocesan office and parish committees, and various phases of the relief work. Mrs. Otto Walter of this city represented the preliminary program presented Wednesday night at the Apostolate office.

German Film Star Here

The lure of wealth and celluloid fame that Hollywood offers has brought another German film actress to America, this time the 19-year-old prodigy pictured here. She is Dita Parlo, whose two film appearances in Germany marked her for stardom and won her a contract to appear in American films with Maurice Chevalier. She has just arrived in New York.

College Orchestra To Play Schubert Program

In observance of the one hundredth anniversary of Schubert's death, which is being commemorated all over the world, from Nov. 19 to 25, Lawrence Conservatory orchestra, under direction of Percy Fullinwider, will give a Schubert Centenary concert at Memorial chapel Wednesday evening, Nov. 21. The program, which will be free, will begin at 8 o'clock.

In addition to the Wednesday evening program, several other activities in the city will observe the anniversary of the great composer's death. Schubert programs will be given in the public schools, in many of the classes at the conservatory, at several churches on Sunday and each morning at the convocation of Lawrence students in the chapel. William C. Webb, organist, will play a Schubert composition. It also is planned to devote one entire chapel program to a Schubert recital, with the conservatory orchestra and Dean Carl J. Waterman on the program.

Schubert's place in music is secure as the consummate master of melody. The artist, who died Nov. 19, 1828, composed more than 1,100 musical compositions before his death, which occurred when he was only 31. In addition to this he perfected the art song, the highest form of song writing; composed 600 songs, and wrote 10 symphonies, the greatest of which are the "Unfinished" and "C Major."

At the performance on Wednesday the Conservatory orchestra, composed of 35 members, will play the "Unfinished Symphony," "Serenade," "Scherzo and Moment Musical." The string quartette will play some of his famous songs such as "Edel King," "Wanderer," "Serenade," "Hark! Hark! the Lark," "Who is Sylvia," "Maid of the Mill," "The Trout" and "The Double."

Miss Helen Mueller, contralto, will sing "An die Musik," "Geheimes." Undeguid and the Earl King. Misses Marie Voecks and Ramona Huesemann will play the Schubert Sonata for Piano and Violin; Ruth Orthman, pianist, will play the Schubert Impromptu and J. H. Mursell, pianist, will play March Militaire. Raymond Walsh will sing "Ame Meer," "Who is Sylvia" and "Der Wanderer." Everett Roubesh will play the accompaniments for the songs.

Without the East. While in the 1916 election Mr. Wilson had a popular vote majority over Mr. Hughes this was not the case in 1912, when he polled a minority of the total—the combined vote of the two Republican candidates, Taft and Roosevelt, being in excess of the Democratic vote. In the 1888 election, Grover Cleveland polled more than 100,000 votes in excess of the opponent, Benjamin Harris, but the latter was elected.

Had such a close result occurred this year there would have been about re-apportionment. Congress is directed by the constitution to reapportion the membership of the house of representatives on the basis of every ten year census. The 1920 census showed that the number of members of the house ought to have been increased. And of course each state's electoral votes are based on how many representatives in the house it has, plus the two additional for membership in the senate.

RELUCTANT TO CHANGE

Representation is supposed to be on the basis of the population in each district but members of congress of both parties have been loath to rearrange their own districts, as it might alter considerably the proportion of Democrats or Republicans, as the case may be and in some instances it might have decreased the number of seats to which a state would be entitled. There is no way of compelling congress to reapportion itself, but it would have been possible for the issue to be raised in the courts if the last election had been so close that reapportionment of the districts would have changed the result. The electoral vote, however, was so one-sided that even on the basis of a reapportionment the final result could not have been changed. Some of the eastern and middle western states which went for Hoover would have had their electoral vote increased.

The re-apportionment issue has never been clearly understood, or public opinion would have pressed for action. It would not be surprising to see an issue made of it next time, particularly as Republicans are assured of control and they probably will benefit rather than be injured by the change in districts and increase in representation from the populous portions of the country.

Speaks at Marinette

The Rev. E. M. Salter, pastor of the First Baptist church in this city, preached a sermon at an evangelistic meeting in the Baptist church at Marinette Wednesday evening. The Rev. U. E. Gibson of the Nazareth Baptist church, also spoke at the meeting.

Caricature Handkerchiefs

London women have a new fad. It is caricature handkerchiefs. They are large and somewhat crudely colored, and in one corner is a stenciled copy of a famous picture. Smart dressers are going farther, however, by having a sketch or caricature of themselves substituted for the picture.

GERMAN OPERA TO REGAIN ALL OLD TIME BRILLIANCE

Directors Are Preparing for Most Ambitious Season in Years

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berlin—(AP)—Berlin's operatic directors are preparing for the most ambitious operatic season since the founding of the young republic. No less than three world premieres, eighteen Berlin first nights, and seventeen productions of old operas in new garb and setting are scheduled.

Composers as far divergent as the ultra-modern contemporaries, Paul Hindemith, Ernest Krenek, Kurt Weill, and Franz Schreker on the one hand, "old timers" like Richard Wagner, Georges Bizet, Hector Berlioz, Giuseppe Verdi, and Franz Schubert on the other, and moderates like Richard Strauss, Max von Schillings and Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari will be interpreted. Opera goers will have to choose from a variegated repertoire.

During the first years after the revolution, the opera institutions were hindered by a lack of funds from expanding their repertoires as they wished. Scarcely had stable conditions returned, when operatic life was cramped by the fact that the State Opera had to be rebuilt and renovated, a process which took two more years.

The season 1928-29, at last, finds Berlin's three opera houses in full swing: the State Opera under den Linden, the Kroll Opera at Republic Square, also state-owned, and the Stadtische Oper—City Opera in the borough of Charlottenburg, the property of the City of Berlin.

Each of the three institutions plans to offer one world premiere. The "Linden" opera announces "Singing Demons," by Professor Franz Schreker of Berlin, the Kroll Opera, a production by Professor Paul Hindemith, also of Berlin, for which the name has not yet been determined, and the City Opera "Moonlight Night," by Julius Bittner, a Viennese composer.

At the head of the Berlin first productions stands Richard Strauss' "Egyptian Helena," which has already been given in Dresden and Vienna. The rights for Berlin have been acquired by the "Linden" opera. This state opera will also offer Berlin premieres of Ernst Krenek's "Ophoeus and Burydice," Umberto Giordano's "Andre Chénier," and Hector Berlioz's "The Trojans."

PLAN PUBLIC HEARINGS ON CHICAGO MILK PRICE

Chicago—(AP)—Public hearings in Wisconsin, protecting areas of Illinois, Indiana and Indiana to consider Chicago's milk price situation are being arranged for next week by the Pure Milk association, which is trying to smooth out this city's milk difficulties. The hearings were decided upon during a conference between Dr. Clyde L. King, economist and milk arbitrator of eastern cities, and officials of the Chicago Milk Marketing commission. The hearings probably will culminate next month in a general hearing in Chicago.

Old Russian Law Killed

By the passing of a new law the state assembly of Estonia has just relieved the peasants of the hardships of an old Russian law. The law compelled them to maintain given portions of the roads in their district. Increased motor traffic brought demands with which the peasants were unable to cope.

There are nearly 1000 agricultural laborers employed in London.

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLICE society from those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't may develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapiesin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapiesin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapiesin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders.

Stomach Always Felt Bloated

Dreco, being a combination of the juices and extracts of herbal plants, combines very readily with the juices of the stomach. That is why its action is so prompt and so positive. It is noticed soon after taking Dreco that the gas stops forming and the food digests perfectly, giving strength to the entire body and renewing vigor and vitality.

Among the thousands who endorse Dreco is Mrs. John O. Swoom, who lives on R. R. 31, Beloit, Wis. She says:

"My stomach used to fill up with gas and feel bloated after each meal. Sometimes the distress was unbearable. I tried Dreco and in three weeks' time it had completely restored my digestion to normal and ended all the indigestion pains."

Dreco is being especially introduced by Schlitz Bros. Drug Store and sold by druggists everywhere.

MOSQUITO HIDES OUT FOR 25 YEARS

Hidden from Hunters for Quarter of Century, Insect Is Finally "Caught"

Washington—(P)—The story of a species of Anopheles mosquito that eluded expert mosquito hunters in Panama through a quarter century of careful observation is told in a paper by Dr. D. P. Curry, assistant chief health officer of the Panama Canal, published by the American Society of Tropical Medicine.

New to science, it has been given the name Anopheles (Chagasia) bathanusi, in honor of its discoverer, C. H. Bath, sanitary inspector at Gatun. Although a number have since been captured and studied, Dr. Curry is inclined to believe it has little or no importance as a malaria carrier.

"So thoroughly have the mosquitoes of Panama been studied by our own workers and others," he says, "that only seldom do we find a new species to add to the about 140 species now listed. Especially in the last few years have the Anopheles been watched closely, as each sanitary inspector has a compound microscope of adequate power, and practically every specimen that is taken passes under its lens."

Mr. Bath found his mosquito as a well developed larva in a "pot hole" in the rocky bed of one of the small streams from the hills above the Agua Clara reservoir, which had been drained only a short time before. They apparently breed only in rapid streams and have remarkable power of resisting flood and wave and current. The scarcity of such streams near the settled parts of the Canal Zone and the difficulty of reaching them through the jungle, even when a trail has been cut, probably accounts for the late discovery of the species.

BALDWIN HOME HOLDS SECRET OF HAPPINESS

Kidderminster, England—(P)—The home life of Stanley Baldwin, British prime minister and Mrs. Baldwin has been a happy one, and the mayor of Kidderminster believes he has discovered the "secret" of it.

On a recent visit to this city, famous for its carpet manufactures, Mr. Baldwin was presented with the freedom of the city and his wife was given a carpet weighing 200 pounds.

The mayor of Kidderminster, in making the presentations, said he had discovered the secret of the Baldwin's domestic happiness when he visited their home at Astley Hall. In the living room he found this framed motto:

"Retire each evening and survey the various actions of the day. Whatever has amiss been done, take care in future time to shun."

They Swam Eighteen Hours

"At 7:30 steamed through wreckage. Found man and woman in water. Launched boat and picked up two of pluckiest people ever met. Eighteen hours in water."... There, in a radiogram from Captain Cummings, of the American Shipper, you have the outline of a grim epic of struggle and survival, the figures in which are here shown—Mrs. Clara G. Ball, a stewardess on the S. S. Vestris, and Paul Dana, a passenger. The photo was taken upon their arrival in New York. Mrs. Ball was partially paralyzed, her companion bruised and cut by tossing wreckage.

MISS COSTELLO THRILLS IN "TENDERLOIN"

It isn't always well to blame man or woman for getting into dangerous predicaments. People have innocently walked into difficulties from which they never could satisfactorily extricate themselves to the satisfaction of even their friends.

A case of this kind furnishes one of the thrilling angles in Dolores Costello's new feature picture, "Tenderloin," coming to Fischers Appleton Theatre Saturday and Sunday. This play deals with a class of crooks, who are of the aristocracy of their "profession" of safe blowing and bank robbing.

These crooks "touch up" a small town bank late one evening and are halted in their "get-away" by the police. The loot is in a small leather bag. It wouldn't do to be caught with "the goods," so the bandit carrying it throws it over a fence, feeling sure it will be picked up by the "look out" on the side street.

Hurrying homeward along this side street, a young girl is startled by the bag falling at her feet. Looking around to discover where it came from, the only signs of life that she can see is that furnished by three men a halfblock away hurriedly entering a car and driving off. The whole thing is decidedly queer. The girl picks up the bag—it is not heavy—and decides that she will take it home and then make inquiries regarding its owner. Hardly has she decided on this than the police sweep around the corner, and immediately arrest her, taking possession of the bag which they know contains the loot. It is plain to them that she was there to get away with the stolen money. A fine position for any honest young woman to find herself in. One might think that all the girl had to do was to establish her good character and all would be well. This is easier said than done and this girl had one terrible time of it.

From this it is to be taken that "Tenderloin" contains all the ingredients that go to make up a really thrilling melodrama. It does, and furthermore, it furnishes the gorgeous Dolores with one of the best acting roles she has ever had. Rarely if ever has she had a role that enabled her to play so much upon the emotions.

"DRY MARTINI" WILL BE SERVED TO PATRONS. Not in liquid but in celluloid form, "Dry Martini" has been booked for a 3 day engagement at the Elite Theatre starting today. It is based on the novel by John Thomas and directed by Harry D'Arrast, who has won success with "Service for Ladies," "The Magnificent Flirt" and "A Gentleman of Paris."

"Dry Martini" is a story of Paris—the Paris of exiled Americans where men live to play and women play to live.

The central figure is played by Albert Grant, who is cast as an American, who has spent eight years in Paris cultivating his five senses and evading domestic responsibilities. At the height of his philandering, his daughter, whom he had not seen for years, comes to visit him. He prepares to give her parental guidance, and he finds she had come to Paris for adventure. How he extricates her and gets himself more deeply enmeshed is artistically shown with deft directorial touches by D'Arrast. Mary Astor plays the daughter and others prominent in the cast are Matt Moore, Sally Eilers, Jocelyn Lee, Albert Conti and Tom Rick-ett.

Consultation centers for children of low mentality have been established by Germany in connection with all children's bureau of large cities. These centers are in charge of psychologists, who are aided by trained workers. They co-operate with the public schools, juvenile courts, and other child-welfare agencies. In some cities the little ones attend the regular schools, being treated in the consultation centers and visited by the trained workers. In other cities special kindergartens and day centers have been established, while in still others is emphasized the end of changing environment and of placing some in special institutions.

Carroll and Lawrence In Homecoming

Lawrence College will meet Carroll in the annual homecoming game at Whiting field tomorrow afternoon in what promises to be a real hard fought battle. Encouraged by the improved play of the Vikings in the Northwestern fracas last week, Coach Rasmussen has spent the past week in polishing off the few remaining rough spots on the team, and as a result, Lawrence fans are optimistic over the outcome of Saturday's game.

While Carroll enters the game the heavy favorites to win; nevertheless, Lawrence has not given up hope. The Vikings are determined to end the season with a victory at the expense of Carroll. The fact that Carroll has never defeated a Lawrence team on the Lawrence field has served even more to inspire the Vikings to keep this record clean.

Despite the bear stories from Carroll, that injuries will keep several star players out of the game, the Waukesha team will be in full strength for the Homecoming game. Coach Armstrong and his gridders, encouraged by their victory over the Northwestern university "B" team last Saturday, are equally determined to win the game.

Coach Rasmussen has spent the past week in perfecting offense with special stress being laid on passing. The Vikings secondary defense has been thoroughly drilled in stopping kinds and variations of the pass. Carroll is expected to throw the game.

Physically the Vikings are in perfect shape, with the exception of captain Barfell. He is hobbling about on crutches because of an injury to his knee, received in the Northwestern game last Saturday. It's a tough break for the Viking captain, to be able to take his place in the Carroll game, for it is the last game of his collegiate career. He is a senior.

The other injured members of the squad are all set for the game. Bloomer will be at quarter, leg being back to normal, and this should be one of the pluckiest quarters best games. His ability to carry the ball, pass, and lead the team are a valuable asset to the team. Voecks injured shoulder is again in good shape and will be at his regular guard position.

Homecoming Celebration

ATURDAY NOVEMBER 17th

ce Clash Battle

The husky Krohn will be at one tackle with his specially constructed nose guard to protect his nose which was broken in the Beloit game.

Probable Lawrence Lineup

Coach Rasmussen will undoubtedly start Laird and St. Mitchell at ends; Krohn and Bickel at tackles; Voeks and Humphreys at guards; Schauer at center; Bloomer at quarter; Rasmussen and MacInnis or Barnes at halves; and Fischl at fullback. This combination seems to be the best both offensively and defensively.

Saturday's game besides being the annual Homecoming game, will be the last college grid contest for several of the Lawrence team. Among them are Bloomer, quarter; Humphrey, guard; Barfell, half if he hasn't already played his last game; Schauer, center; and MacInnis, half.

Townspeople and students alike are urged to attend this homecoming game. It will be a battle from start to finish worth going many miles to see, and with the proper support, the Lawrence team has an even chance on upsetting the dope and coming out victorious over the Carroll team.

VETERAN EMPLOYEES OF POWER CO. ARE GUESTS AT BANQUET

Employees With Twenty Year Service Records Guests at Annual Dinner

Eighteen veteran employees of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. will be included among the 600 men and women of the thirteenth annual banquet of the Veterans association of The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co. and associated utilities at Hotel Pfister in Milwaukee Saturday night. Only persons who have been in the service of the companies for twenty or more years are eligible to become members of the association.

Appleton veterans are A. K. Ellis, F. Probst, Robert F. McGillan, Gus Kott, G. Q. Lausman, J. W. McCarter, George Mensinger, J. F. Voeg, Richard Wenzlaff, H. C. Parks, Jack Hughes, Charles Reifke, J. W. Stark, August Vachek, Matt Bauer, Mike Quilan, Herman Kloes, Frank Bomler. An aggregate of 15,000 years of public service will be represented at the gathering, according to S. W. Henningsfeld, Milwaukee, chief veteran. The organization is comprised of 615 men and 13 women. The membership includes seven "double veterans" with 40 or more years of service, and many major officials of the companies.

Dr. C. H. Beale, Oshkosh, pastor emeritus of the Grand-Ave Congregational church, Milwaukee, will be the principal speaker. Others on the program are S. B. Way, president of T. M. E. R. and L. Co. and Willard G. Flint, president of the Employees' Mutual Benefit association. C. M. Berry will be toastmaster.

Julius Miller, Milwaukee, will receive a diamond studded emblem signifying completion of 40 years of service. Other double veterans expected to attend are Peter Bell, Frank J. Boehm, Fred Weisig, Fred Stockfish, John Tretow, Sr., and Peter Fuhr, all of Milwaukee.

Delegations are expected from Racine, Kenosha, Burlington, Troy, Waukesha, Watertown, and other Wisconsin cities. Four veteran employees of the Union-Electric Light & Power Co., St. Louis, will be guests. Election of officers will follow the banquet.

SEEKS COMPENSATION FOR GANGRENE IN FOOT

Charging gangrene set in his small toe after the member was crushed beneath a 200-pound bag of alum while he was employed by the Neenah Paper company at Neenah, John Hahn, Neenah, presented testimony at a hearing before Howard F. Olin, industrial commissioner, at the courthouse Thursday afternoon in his claim for compensation. The case arises under the Workmen's Compensation act. Testimony also was taken in the case of Anton A. Braun versus John Strange Paper company of Neenah. Braun claims he contracted bladder trouble as the result of working in a flume-tunnel. The case of Frank Gustman versus Menasha Woodware company was stricken from the calendar.

U. S. WILL GET SOME OF NAPOLEON'S LOOT

Paris—(AP)—Napoleonic loot, old paintings taken from captured towns in Belgium and Holland are being sent to the United States for sale. These pictures, 8 of them, were part of the collection of General Haquin, once aide-de-camp of the emperor, and commander of one of his armies. He was "fired" because he refused to execute all the terrible orders his superiors thought necessary to cow the populations of conquered towns. For a century the pictures remained in the Haquin family but were sold last year by the general's grand niece, Madame Giovannoni and have just been bought by the Masters Art Gallery of New York. They have been valued at $1,000,000 by a group of experts, including Doctor W. N. Eakint of Petrograd, Desarmet Fitz-Gerald, the Spanish art authority, and Henri Gervey, one of the French government's appraisers.

SPYING IS BANNED IN HONOR EXAMINATIONS

Austin, Texas—(AP)—University of Texas students decree they are not their brothers' keepers in the matter of honesty in examinations. By vote of the student body, the "spy" clause of the pledge of honor, which has been in operation since 1883, has been abolished. The honor system now is based on a declaration by the student that he or she has neither given nor received aid on examinations and certain written work. That part of the pledge in which the student said he had not seen others giving or receiving aid was struck out by 1,168 votes of the 1,494 cast in the referendum of the question.

"FRISCO" IS ONE WORD SAN FRANCISCO HATES

San Francisco—(AP)—The world at large is soon to be informed that there are seventeen "Friscos" in the United States but that none of these towns or cities is located in California.

A committee representing the California Club, joined by the Daughters of California Pioneers Club, is engaged in compiling a folder to accomplish this very purpose.

In 1905 the state legislature brought forth from the state legislature an appeal to President Roosevelt and the postmaster general urging that Spanish names given to cities and towns be preserved, but it is found the use of the objectionable abbreviation is again becoming current.

To those who contend that "Frisco" is a diminutive implying affection, more or less, the answer is to be given that this particular city was named after a saint and that it is unbecoming to give a saint a nickname.

A Happy Day, After All

Katie Smith had a birthday November 6. Although that also was election day, Al wasn't too busy to help her celebrate. When they went to the National Democratic Club in New York City, they found this giant cake had been prepared in Mrs. Smith's honor. And there was no trace of the "Unhappy Warrior" in her husband's smile when they posed together for this picture.

How To Play Bridge

BY MILTON C. WORK

CONTRACT BRIDGE

For two years I have been urging Contract Bridge players to use my count when bidding No Trump or jumping partner's No Trump, as I believe it to be a winning system. Following hunches, bidding one hand and passing another with the same amount of strength, is fatal to sound Contract, a game in which it is essential that your partner know as nearly as may be the exact strength that you have.

In Contract the rank and file of partners, when they have some strength in each hand, are very apt to bid somewhat aimlessly in the following manner:

South (Dealer) one No Trump (and supposing that the adversaries pass North two No Trumps, South three No Trumps. They are apt to consider that three No Trumps by the Dealer is a bid that is virtually forced by the jump to two No Trumps by the partner. They argue that there is no point in stopping at two No Trumps—one short of game—with a hand that by any possibility can make three; and therefore, in many cases they throw away a valuable partial score of 70 and suffer an unnecessary penalty.

Of course, there is no system that will work in every hand, and yet the system I advocate will almost accomplish this seeming impossibility. During the past Summer I tested it in 600 rubbers, watching every case in which a No Trump was bid; and remarkable as it may seem, in that enormous number of hands there was hardly a single instance in which the scheme did not work perfectly; i. e., it directed a bid of three No Trumps in hands in which that contract could be made, and held the bidder short from the game-going declaration in hands with which it could not be made.

If it is conceded that in other tests the system would not be apt to score so phenomenal a record, but I do not believe that in any test it will fail to produce results that should satisfy.

Tomorrow I will give the details of this count, each item checked up by the result of the test above named, and also of similar tests that have been made for me by a number of experts in various parts of the country.

Days Lengthen At Rate Of Second Every 100,000 Years

Washington—(AP)—The days are growing longer—at a rate of about one second every 100,000 years. That much has been established through study of astronomical records covering long periods of observation which show that the earth is gradually slowing down as it revolves on its axis.

Going further, Prof. Benjamin Boss, director of the department of meridian astronomy of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and of the Dudley Observatory at Albany, N. Y., has recently been led to the conclusion that the rotation rate undergoes yearly and perhaps even daily changes, with alternate periods of slowing and speeding. He also has observed an apparent relationship between these fluctuations in the rotation rate and the variable frequency in the occurrence of earthquakes. Thus far it has not been possible to foretell the amount of change to be expected in the earth's rotation, but if this can be done and the indicated relationship can be established, he suggests, it may become feasible for scientists to predict periods of great earthquake activity.

Edmund Halley was the first to note the decrease in the spinning rate of the earth, and Sir George Darwin, second son of Charles Darwin, ascribed this phenomenon to the friction produced by the tides pulling up on shores and dragging across the bottom of shallow seas. That, however, would account for only two-thirds of the aggregate loss of speed, and Professor Boss believes that the difference can be ascribed to the existence of similar tides within the earth as well as in the oceans.

The discovery of the alternate speeding and slowing of the earth's rotation is credited principally to Prof. E. W. Brown of Yale. By comparing the observed positions of the sun, moon and planets, as recorded during a century of observation, with their calculated positions, he found that in some years they were ahead and in others behind the positions they should have occupied. The fact that the changes were simultaneous disclosed that the earth, not the sun, moon and planets, was out of step.

When the earth was young, it is calculated, it must have spun very much faster than it does now, probably making a complete rotation in about five hours. Now, much older, it rotates once in 24 hours, but despite this relatively great loss of speed a point at the equator travels at a rate of more than 1,000 miles an hour.

ALL-CANADA TELEPHONE SERVICE ESTABLISHED

Winnipeg—(AP)—An all-Canadian telephone service from Winnipeg to Montreal has been established via Port Arthur and Fort William, a distance of 1,600 miles. Heretofore a connection between the two cities had to be made through links in the United States.

Rates will be lowered as a result of the opening of the all-Canadian line. Coast-to-coast communication is expected in the near future, the final stage being completion of the line across the Rockies for which the Canadian Pacific railroads right of way will be largely used.

SMOKING EDICT SADDENS MEN AT FREIGHT DEPOT

There is a sad state of affairs at the Chicago and Northwestern freight depot on N. Superior-st. and the cause of all the "gloominess" is due to a sign which bears the inscription "No Smoking." As a result of this new edict which was never dreamed of while the boys were in their old quarters on N. Appleton-st., they have resorted to chewing on unlighted cigars.

Salesmen, railroad officials and even occasional reporters visiting the office and sporting cigars or cigarettes are as unwelcome as an old maid at a weekend house party as far as the billing clerks are concerned. Their happy days are over until smoking is again permitted.

Smoking was the hobby at the old depot, and the tops of the desks looked it. One of the clerks even covered the top of his desk with asbestos paper so that there would be no danger of a cigarette or cigar marring it. The boys are hoping and praying for the day when the new shiny desks at the depot are old enough to harbor cigars and cigarettes, and officials open up their hearts by tearing down their prohibition sign.

FIVE ARE INITIATED BY PHI BETA KAPPA

Joseph Gerend, Kaukauna; Kenneth Miles, Appleton; Bryce Osanne, Neenah; Winifred Sullivan, Rhineland; and Anna Marie Perschbacher, West Bend; all '28, were initiated into Wisconsin Gamma chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, at a meeting at Russell Sage Thursday afternoon. The five initiates were elected at a meeting of Phi Beta Kappa earlier in the year, and form the first selection of the society for the year.

The initiation service was in charge of Dr. J. W. Griffiths, president of the local chapter. Other officers of the organization are Professor F. W. Clippinger, secretary; Miss Katherine Wisner, treasurer; and Miss Lucile Welty, vice-president. After the service, tea was served by Miss Charlotte Lorenz.

She is Mayor

The first woman mayor in North Carolina is Mrs. Leah Arcouet Chiles, mayor-elect of the town of Kenilworth, an exclusive residential village near Asheville. She received 76 per cent of the total vote. Mrs. Chiles is president of the Kenilworth Art Association and a leader in civic improvement projects. Her father, Casimir Arcouet of Lyons, France, and Aurora, Ill., was a famous sculptor.

RAKE, INDEED!

Quite, Ecuador—What is so rare as a day in June? Nothing but a polite traffic cop. But here in Quito you find them all that way. When north and south bound traffic is stopped to allow east and west bound traffic through at street intersections, the officer on duty motions to the north and south bound pedestrians to keep on the sidewalks, saying, "With your permission, ladies and gentlemen."

Finland is set down in the midst of an archipelago of 10,000 small islands.

Up on Old Baldy

a prospector found something worth MORE THAN GOLD

"On the slopes of Old Baldy Mountain in Northern New Mexico, I lay one night, sleepless and tired. I resorted to all the devices commonly employed to lure human beings to slumber, but all to no avail."

"When I related my experiences to an old prospector the following day, he advised me to use no more caffeine, but instead to use Postum and I would have no more trouble. I did, and I slept. That sleepless night on Old Baldy was over a quarter century ago. Since then, Instant Postum has been indispensable to my equipment. And I have found it just as essential on the plains as in the high camps of the Sierras."

POSTUM'S wonderful flavor and wholesome after-effects have made it the favorite mealtime drink in more than 2,000,000 American homes. It is made of roasted whole wheat and bran—no trace of any artificial stimulant in it. Nothing to irritate the nerves, to disturb sleep, or affect digestion. And Postum is so good!—with a rich, full-bodied distinctive flavor that millions prefer to that of any other mealtime drink!

Postum costs much less than other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order from your grocer today—try it for thirty days, in place of coffee beverages! Then judge results!

Girl Bootblack Resigns When U. W. Dean Frowns

Madison—(AP)—Louise M. Lyons, former University of Wisconsin student, has left her porter's post, after having gained considerable notoriety here by working as a bootblack in a barber shop in the student section.

She abandoned the long-bristled brushes when F. Louise Nardin, dean of women at the university, heard of the position or job she occupied. "Bill" Lyons, as she was called in the barber shop, was living with several other girls in an approved student home. Miss Nardin found Miss Lyons' position that one tending to lower the dignity of the female student body, and entirely unfit for a girl who is to associate with university girls. Miss Nardin has supervision over arrangements between the university and private home owners concerning living conditions for female students.

She gave Miss Lyons the choice of moving the rooming house or giving up her job. At the barber shop it was said Friday that Louise resigned, effective Wednesday. Miss Lyons, while not now a student, was one last year, and intended to return to the state school soon. She was assumed to have chosen to follow the dean's advice because of her desire to re-enter school unhandicapped by a background of disfavor.

INSURE FRENCH

Paris—Every man and woman in France working for less than $700 yearly will be insured against sickness, old age and death, as well as premature incapacitation, under a new law that provides the workers will pay half the premium, or 10 per cent of the salary and the employers the other half.

LONG LONG WAIT

Philadelphia—The children of Eli Wasserman have $4,500 coming to them, but they'll have to wait 25 years before they get it. Upon Wasserman's death, a clause was found in his will providing for the division of his estate between his ten children. The division was prolonged for the 25 years because "of ill treatment received from them."

WATER FIREMAN FACES TROUBLE LOCATING FIRE

New Orleans, La.—(P)—One of the hardest jobs for a watergoing fire department is finding the fire, says John J. C. Pasley, fire captain of the fire tug Deluge, guardian of New Orleans harbor.

"When a building is burning you can see where and how it is burning. When a ship is afire, however, it's not so easy. It may be afire in any one of a hundred places. Generally, though, you can find the fire by searching for the hottest place on deck. But even after you have done this, your work has just started, because then you have to learn the construction of the ship, the arrangement of bulkheads and hatches, and learn the nature of the cargo."

The Deluge, the captain says, answers about four calls a month in addition to emergency tasks of various kinds.

The Week's Prize Simplified Baking Recipe

Is for These Gay and Delightful PINWHEEL COOKIES

Mrs. Jean Le Lang, famous for her cakes and French pastries, says: "The use of 'Kitchen-tested' flour cannot help but improve any baking."

Mixing Time This "Kitchen-tested" Recipe, 12 Minutes

This week's prize for simplified baking goes to Chocolate Pinwheel Cookies. Of 278 women trying the recipe, not a single one failed, her first attempt! You'll enjoy trying it.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished. "Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means Gold Medal Flour always acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipes.

Ask your grocer for GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. For perfect results, be sure and get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

RECIPE....Chocolate Pinwheel Cookies

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. vanilla, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup GOLD MEDAL "KITCHEN-TESTED" FLOUR, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. baking powder, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt, 3 tbsp. milk, 1 sq. chocolate (1 oz.).
 METHOD: 1. Cream butter, add sugar, and cream both thoroughly. 2. Add unbeaten egg yolk and vanilla, mix thoroughly. 3. Sift flour once before measuring. 4. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt together. 5. Add flour mixture alternately with milk. 6. Take one-half mixture and add melted chocolate to it. 7. Roll white dough to $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thickness. 8. Pat chocolate dough out like biscuit dough and lay on top of white dough. Roll chocolate dough in this position until the same size and thickness as the white dough. Roll up like jelly roll about 2 inches in diameter showing alternate layers of white and chocolate. 9. Set dough in ice box for several hours to become firm. 10. Cut in thin slices and lay cut side down on cookie sheet or pan and bake. TIME: Bake 12 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 350° F., moderate oven. AMOUNT: Five dozen cookies 2 inches in diameter.

This and other delightful "Kitchen-tested" recipes given every Wednesday and Friday in the Gold Medal Radio Cooking School. You are invited to listen in.

EXPERT COULD CUT COSTS OF STATE IN TWO, LEVITAN SAYS

State Treasurer Addresses National Association of Comptrollers

New Orleans—(AP)—A real efficiency expert would be able to cut state and national expense almost in half, Solomon Levitan, Wisconsin state treasurer, said in an address here Thursday evening. He spoke before the National Association of State Auditors, Comptroller and Treasurers. He is the first vice-president of the organization.

The public debt of the United States on June 30, 1928, amounted to $17,467,605,507.00; and the gross bonded indebtedness of our forty-eight states amounted to $1,971,354,167.25, or a per capita state debt of $16.01, he said. The total national and state indebtedness amounts to $19,438,959,674.25.

"With our population of 120,013,000 estimated as of July 1, 1928, the per capita debt is $161.97. Nor is this all, for the county and city indebtedness is not included in this amount.

Taxation is one of the most complex problems of our nation. It is difficult to know where to begin to cut down expenditures. The debts are incurred for legitimate purposes, such as education, welfare institutions, agricultural aid, highways, public buildings, waterways and soldiers' bonus and other military purposes.

Then Mr. Levitan suggested the efficiency expert.

"However, it would be no easy task for any man or group of men to get the state or federal governments to accept a plan offering a remedy for them. In the first place, it would require a willingness on the part of the various government administrators and legislators to take an absolutely impersonal view of the situation, a willingness to permit an uncovering and an elimination of political maneuvering. It would require an honesty and courage on the part of the majority of those in power that so far has been found only in the exceptional leaders of our country. It would require a cooperation in and between the many departments of state and federal government that has not yet been manifested.

"One of the causes for the steady increase in public expense is that too many government officials, when they are elected, exert their chief efforts toward continuing in office another term. Their stand on questions vital to the public is dictated not by their conviction of what would be best for the people, but by what effect it would have on the vote at the next election.

TRY COMMUNISTIC IDEA IN FLORIDA COMMUNITY

Tampa, Fla.—(AP)—Tampa is experiencing its first venture into communism. The movement, inaugurated by the Family Service association, is patterned along different lines from that in Russia.

In a sparsely settled neighborhood, six small houses stood for a long period unrented. The owner listened to a plan outlined by association officers and agreed to turn his buildings into the experiment.

The plan, explained by Miss Eleanor Porter, director of the organization, is to give the homes to broken families—widows and deserted mothers—with children. A playground for the youngsters is under way and contests are held for the adults in the transformation of barren exteriors with vines and flowers.

There is community buying and the group ideal is extended to other activities. Several families now are established in the homes.

RED CROSS TO TEACH NATION HOW TO EAT

Washington—(AP)—What to eat, why and how is being taught by the Red Cross nutritionists all over the country.

Five million men and women are being asked to join the Red Cross nutrition classes between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day in the hope of benefiting the health of millions of people in years to come.

The campaign is being carried on in hundreds of communities through trained nutritionists. Mothers are being taught how to prepare school luncheons which will give the children proper food values. Through 3,822 classes which have been organized the past year, 6,226 adults and 122,386 children have been benefited.

Fathers and mothers are also taught proper food values so that the mother in the home will be equipped with the necessary knowledge in the preparation of home meals and the father will know better than to bolt a hasty downtown luncheon of indigestible things.

CHINA FORBIDS SALE OF OPIUM TO MINORS

Peking—(AP)—The Nanking government issued a decree strictly forbidding the use of opium, tobacco or alcoholic liquors by boys and girls under 20 years of age.

The order applies to all cities under the national regime and the penalty for its violation is a fine of $5.00. Parents and guardians will be held responsible for obedience to the order on the part of all children under 18.

Fines not exceeding $20 will be imposed on all wine and tobacco merchants who sell their wares to minors.

Macedonian Youths Buy Brides On Easy Payments

By GEORGE HALADJIAN
Uskub, Serbian Macedonia—(AP)—Wives are now bought on the installment plan, or hide-purchase system, in Macedonia.

The preponderance of males has attached a high value to the girls of this former Turkish province. Payment is made on the basis of 25 per cent on the day of the engagements, 25 per cent on the day of the wedding, and the remainder in equal annual installments, spread over a number of years.

Cases are reported where poor laborers have become bandits in order to get the cash necessary to buy a bride. Once successful, they would throw away their shooting outfit and resume their peaceful life. Many peasants have in this way lost their lives, the police records show. The gendarmerie has made a task of cleaning the whole country of bandits and the number of these killed during encounters with the gendarmerie runs into several hundreds.

The peasant of Macedonia toils all his life in order to buy a wife. To be single in Macedonia is a confession of one's inability to win a woman's heart, and the peasant here makes it a question of pride to court a girl and make her his wife. The groom pays the family of the girl a certain sum in gold. The amount varies between 10 to 100 Turkish pounds, according to the physical attractions and the weight of the would-be bride.

In the time of the sultans, marriage was concluded in cash. Times are now hard for Macedonia where the drought of recent years has blighted the crops and added to the general impoverishment of the country. The depreciation of the dinar and other adverse economic factors have resulted in a glut in the market of brides. Easy payments are therefore accepted, instead of strict cash, which was formerly the time-honored practice.

These marriages are now always legal, and although monogamy is the law of Yugoslavia an exception is made in favor of the Moslem subjects of the triune kingdom. These, however, must go through a form of marriage in order that the union should be, in the eyes of the government, legally consummated.

London has more than 143,000 aliens within its borders.

Active People want and need sugar

The "Fuel of Preference" in the body

AN EMINENT food authority recently stated that any person who has a very active body is likely to be always on the edge of the sugar reserve in his body (glycogen). "That is why," he said, "the soldier and athlete wants and needs sugar. That is why the active child wants and needs sugar." He went on to explain that sugar is the fuel of preference in the body, that sugar can be more easily and quickly converted into energy than any other food. He emphasized the fact that sugar should form a part of the regular diet of every family and that any reducing diet, as well as any other diet, should contain sugar.

The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of other foods. In that way, it serves the double purpose of furnishing energy to the body and also of adding appetizing delight to other healthful foods. Sugar added to healthful grain cereals makes them welcome and enjoyable to growing children. Think of how many health-giving fruits are objectionable to the taste without sugar. Scientists tell us that we need the daily roughage of salads as well as cooked fruits and vegetables. Any good cook knows that adding sugar makes all of these welcome and pleasant to the palate. In addition to being the best and cheapest fuel for the body, sugar is nature's perfect flavor. It makes nearly all other foods more enjoyable. For health and enjoyment, there is no substitute for sugar. The Sugar Institute.

GERMANS DIDN'T GET MUCH TOURIST TRADE

Expected Greater Proportion of American Business Than It Got

Berlin—(AP)—Germany has already drawn up a trial balance sheet of this year's American tourist business and found that the volume failed to fulfill fantastic hopes expressed at the start of the season.

The general verdict is that traffic was "fair but could have been better." The Scandinavian countries, it is said, drew bigger crowds than ever before, owing to a more extensive and more effective system of advertising.

It is noted that the social status of visiting Americans this year has been "good solid middle class folk" as shown by the large per centage who traveled in parties and used one-class boats.

Germans admit that they have had an object lesson in American prohibition this year. Gone is the army of thirsty "bar stromers" as Americans were called whose first demand upon arrival was for liquor, and restaurant waiters have become quite accustomed to being asked for ice water.

Berlin trade reckons with a revenue of $25,000,000 as the turnover of this summer's tourist traffic. How much Americans contributed to this sum is difficult to determine, as all English-speaking persons who look like owning well filled wallets are apt to be spoken of loosely as "Americans."

China and porcelain dealers are well satisfied with this year's harvest, but photographic and optical instrument makers very much less so. Americans it is found, have a great liking for hand made articles, and they have also been interested in artificial silks, non-rusting cutlery, surgical instruments, old books and other antiques. A notable feature is said to be that South Americans buy little or nothing in Germany. For them, Paris is and remains the only European center for making purchases to take home.

In Cabinet?

VERMONT RECOVERS FROM 1928 FLOOD

Red Cross Completes Relief Activities Early During The Summer

Montpelier, Vt.—(AP)—The scars of a flood that stunned Vermont a year ago are being swiftly erased.

A year ago the Green Mountain state was striving desperately to overcome the handicap of wrecked communication lines in an effort to learn the extent of the worst flood in the state's history. Citizens were struggling to render aid to the thousands of homeless and destitute.

The lieutenant governor of the state lay dead, with hundreds of his fellow citizens. Property damage that can never be accurately estimated, but that totaled perhaps $30,000,000 had been wrought. Today, smooth, easy-riding roads carry the automobile traveler about the state with only occasional evidence of the demoralization that existed a year ago. Bridges have been replaced by either temporary or permanent structures. Here and there an easily traveled detour routes the traveler around one of the bad spots remaining. The work of reconstruction goes forward steadily.

Necessarily, there are some wounds that may not be healed for years, places where the flood waters tore down through narrow valleys, ruining farmlands, destroying homes and killing inhabitants, gouging out huge gorges.

But even in private affairs the recovery has been marked. Damaged structures have been repaired. New houses have been built. Dams that were damaged or destroyed have been or are being repaired and where necessary, rebuilt.

Early last summer, the Red Cross completed its relief tourlets were as the summer season tourists were assured by the state's officials that they need not fear travel over the highways. Long before that time the railroads and telephone and telegraph companies had reestablished themselves. The state continues its rehabilitation work and everywhere there is evidence of virile recovery.

RELIGION, TARIFF
ENGLISH ELECTION

Prayer Book Controversy Divides Great Britain into Two Camps

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

London (AP)—Farmer Stanley Baldwin, by avocation prime minister of England, knows all there is to know about pigs. But he can't tell how far that tantalizing little animal can jump.

If he could do that he would be the happiest man in Britain, because only such depth of perspicacity would enable him, or anybody else, to forecast what is going to happen to him and his conservative majority in the general election which is now brewing.

The big guns of the campaign are getting into action, and an interesting sidelight is the personal competition between Farmer Stanley Baldwin and former Premier Lloyd George, the liberal leader, who is proud of his Welsh birthright. The little Welsh Napoleon is posing for his picture as he stands by a sty looking down knowingly at a huge pig; the farmer Stanley has invaded Mr. Lloyd's native hills and tried to speak Welsh.

The latest and most surprising development is that religion may play a part in the election, thereby getting into politics for the first time in many years. The prayer book controversy, which has divided the Church of England into two camps has left the venerable Archbishop of Canterbury, a broken hearted man, has already cropped up in the political field.

Certain Anglo-Catholics are planning to run a candidate in an effort to defeat Home Secretary Sir William Joynson Hicks, who is leader of the anti-Anglo-Catholic members of the Church of England. Sir William has expressed regret that religion should get into politics, but at the same time has issued warning that if he is opposed on religious grounds in his constituency, there will be reprisals elsewhere.

The religious question, however, is not a party issue. If it arises, it probably will be through individual effort. It could hardly be taken cognizance of in any party platform. The main issues, so far as they have developed, are:

To put it bluntly, the class warfare which is being waged between labor and the so-called "vested interests," or upper-classes.

The highly important question of protection versus free trade.

The grievous unemployment problem, and the slump which has hit many industries so hard, especially the coal trade.

Perhaps the most puzzling aspect of the situation is how some 18,000,000 women voters, about $5,000,000 of whom are newly enfranchised, will cast their ballots. Many a homely politician is at this moment wishing he were a "Sheik." Incongruous as it may seem, the free-trade issue is likely to affect the feminine vote materially.

Protection versus free-trade bids fair to loom large, although the conservatives as a whole wish to avoid it. The premier and his party are mainly protectionists; the laborites and the liberals are free-traders. Mr. Baldwin, having brought his party to disaster in the general election of 1923, by advocating protection, has been forced to accept the mandate of the people and compromise by putting Mr. Lloyd George in charge of the "safeguarding" of industries, as opposed to tariffs for the purposes of revenue.

BEG PARDON

An error in taking a report from the courthouse caused The Post-Crescent Thursday to give an erroneous account of the litigation between H. J. Pettigrew, Milwaukee, and John Conway, hotel owner. Mr. Pettigrew sued Mr. Conway for $500 which he asserted was due him on an agreement made with Mr. Conway for working out his income tax schedule and for back salary alleged to be due him. Mr. Conway in turn presented a counter claim for money alleged to be due him on a note and on an open account. The court, during the trial, threw out $150 of Mr. Pettigrew's claim and then directed a verdict in favor of Mr. Conway for approximately $345, representing the money due him on the note and open account. The remainder of Mr. Pettigrew's claim was submitted to the jury which awarded him $300, or about $15 less than had been given Mr. Conway, and the costs were assessed against Mr. Pettigrew.

POLICE BOOTLEG CASE TO GET COURT AIRING

Pittsburg (AP)—Pittsburg's now famous police-bootleg conspiracy case, involving 167 persons, will be aired in federal court in November.

The defendants, named in a blanket indictment said to be in the largest ever returned in the United States, include high police officials, such as Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police, and two members of the Pennsylvania state legislature, Samuel J. Gernet and Luke Sullivan. A former prohibition agent is among the lot, as well as a nationally known public links golfer, Samuel Graham, one of Pittsburg's "blue coats."

The ramifications of the liquor clique reputed to be the most extensive in the city's history, were uncovered by men employed as investigators by Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington. These undercover men made "buys" and turned the evidence over to Pennington and United States District Attorney John D. Meyer.

More than 1,000 witnesses went before the grand jury, which brought in the indictment to reveal the inner workings of the liquor ring.

APPOINT FARMERS ON COMMITTEE FOR FARM-CITY DINNER

Annual Gathering Sponsored by Chamber of Commerce
to Be Held Nov. 22

Fourteen Outagamie-co farmers and their wives have been named on the rural reception and invitation committee for the annual farm-city dinner at Methodist church Nov. 22. Duties of the committees are to extend a verbal invitation to farmers in their respective neighborhoods to attend the dinner and to greet them here and see that they are properly received and made to feel at home. The dinner is being sponsored by Appleton chamber of commerce.

Members of the committee are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schroeder, route 1, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Milo Anderson, route 11, Neenah; Mr. and Mrs. George Palmbach, route 2, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Laird, route 2, Shiocton; George Weising, 1109 W. Packard-st., Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Palitzer, route 5, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Emil

Krueger, route 2, Kaukauna; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vandomlin, route 1, Little Chute; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Luebke, route 6, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryne, route 6, Appleton; Malachi Ryan, route 7, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Matt Schaefer, route 7, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kasslitz, route 7, Appleton, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bartlein, route 1, Menasha.

Letters informing committee members of their work were sent out Friday by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, together with details of the evening's program.

Following a custom started last year reservation blanks for the banquet again will be published in the Post-Crescent. Farmers wishing to attend the dinner should fill out the blank and mail them to the chamber of commerce.

A meeting to select the outstanding Outagamie-co pioneer farmer who has contributed to the agricultural development of the county was held Friday afternoon. Members of the committee making the choice are W. O. Thiede, president of the chamber of commerce, Mike Mack, chairman of the county board of supervisors and Mayor A. C. Rule of Appleton. Their choice probably will not be made public until a day or two before the dinner.

GERMANY HAS RECOVERED FROM WAR MALNUTRITION

Leipzig (AP)—The growing generation in Germany is physically well equipped for the struggle for life and affords a remarkable contrast to the terrible years of food scarcity during the war and the years of inflation.

There is no under-nourishment now in the whole Reich, said Professor Walter von Guerne of Rostock University in the course of a notable address on the improvement of national physique in Germany, delivered at the public health congress held there recently.

Professor von Guerne declared that in the last five years the average height of German children had increased by a whole inch, with a corresponding increase in weight. Anemia, scrofula, tuberculosis and rachitis had been reduced by 50 per cent.

Thomas Crowder Chamberlin, 85, Was University President 1887-92

Chicago (AP)—Prof. Thomas Crowder Chamberlin, noted geologist, and former president of the University of Wisconsin, died Thursday at the University of Chicago Memorial hospital at the age of 85 years. Attending physicians said death was caused by bronchial pneumonia and heart disease.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at the new University of Chicago chapel and burial will be in Beloit, where he was graduated from college in 1866.

Professor Chamberlin was the originator of the plantesimal hypothesis theory of formation of the earth, which began as a star revolving around the earth and drew in fragments of small plants thus forming the earth.

Professor Chamberlin elaborated on his theory in his latest book, "Two Solar Systems—The Sun's Children," published just three weeks ago.

ON SEVERAL FACULTIES
Madison (AP)—Prof. T. C. Chamberlain, professor emeritus of the University of Chicago, who died there Thursday, was president of the University of Wisconsin from 1887 to 1902. He was widely known in Wisconsin, having served on the faculty of Whitewater State normal Beloit college and the state university and later went to the University of Chicago.

Professor Chamberlain one of the leading authorities on geology in the United States, was born at Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 25, 1843. He was graduated from Beloit college in 1866, and received degrees from the University of Michigan, Wisconsin, and several other institutions.

He was professor of natural science at Whitewater from 1869 to 1872; professor of geology at Beloit from 1873 to 1882; and at Columbia university from 1885-87 and then came back to Wisconsin as president. He became director of geology and the Walter Museum of the University of Chicago in 1892 and continued until retired in 1919.

CHRITIAN WILL DEDICATE ORGAN

Modern Compositions Will Make Large Part of Dedication Program

Modern organ compositions that are at once appealing and "good music" will make up a great part of the program of Palmer Christian famous organist who will play the dedication recital on the Moller pipe organ at First Congregational church Thursday evening, Nov. 22.

Mr. Christian, one of the most effective recitalists of the day, is particularly popular for his ability to build interesting programs. He is adept at weaving into a program just the right number of the standard classic composers and only those numbers that are not hackneyed. In addition, his highly imaginative use of the tonal resources of the organ imbues his recitals with the elements of vitality and varied atmosphere that are sometimes lacking in organ programs.

Critics from New York to Los Angeles and from Montreal and Vancouver to Dallas and Miami have paid glowing tribute to Mr. Christian's performance and the response of his audience is always warm and sincere.

Tickets for the recital are on sale at the church and at Bellings, drug-store.

Mrs. H. S. Smith, Milwaukee, is spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heins, N. Division-st.

Health Show

Miss Anita Nemacheck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nemacheck, 332 Washington-st., will play "Cheerio from Laughterland" in the Wisconsin Anti-tuberculosis Punch and Judy Health show, Know-Nothing, the Witch of Ignorance. The show will be given in Wisconsin and adjoining states; already 250,000 children have seen the production, which is sent out as a health messenger.

The play was written by Mrs. Louise F. Brand and health organizations in many surrounding states have made numerous demands for this health show.

Miss Nemacheck was graduated from the Appleton high school and studied for two years at Lawrence college. Later she was graduated from the Hinshaw Conservatory of Music and Dramatic Art, Chicago.

EXHIBIT AT COLLEGE

An exhibit of twenty-seven etchings by J. C. Vondrou, New York, is being displayed in the exhibitors' alcove on the second floor of Lawrence college library. The etchings were sent to Lawrence from the Chicago society of etchers.

Vondrou was born in Bohemia in 1884. He began his training at the National Academy of Design in New York. His first work was directed by one of America's veterans of the needle, James D. Smillie.

Some of the more famous of the 27 etchings on exhibit are: The Market, Charles IV Bridge, Old House Malines, San Giorgio, The Mill, A Street in Malines, An Old Bridge and a Library, Columbia University, New York.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry
for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

tendent Reports

With an average attendance of 95.9 per cent, the public schools of the city show almost a perfect attendance for the first six weeks period of the school year. The grade schools had a record attendance of 96.4, which includes the attendance of kindergarten pupils; the junior high school percentage was 97.37, and the senior high school percentage was 96. The average daily attendance was 1,666.33 in the grades, 1,152.4 in the junior high schools, and 817 in the high school.

Pupils neither absent nor tardy numbered 2,119, 996 in the grades, 612 in the junior high schools, and 511 in the senior high school. There were 551 cases of tardiness, the greatest number, 335, being in the grades.

Fifty-five pupils were dropped since the first school enrollment figures were published. Forty were dropped from the grades, 11 from the junior high schools, and 19 from the high school. The total number now enrolled is 39,783; grades 22,161; junior high schools, 8,282; and senior high school, 833.

Eleven pupils were admitted by transfer, eight re-entered after having been dropped, and 35 were transferred from one school to another.

Subject failures during the six weeks totaled 722, 469 in the grades, 128 in the junior high schools, and 125 in the senior high school. There were no cases of corporal punishment during the six weeks, and no suspensions.

CROSSINGS TO COST STATE $400,000

Huge Sum Will Be Spent
Next Year, Says Railroad Commission Member

New Orleans, La.—(P)—Wisconsin will spend even more than the $400,000 which the railroads will provide to eliminate grade crossings, next year, A. R. McDonald, member of that state's railroad commission told the national association of Railroad and Utilities commissioners here Wednesday. As chairman he gave the report of the committee on grade crossings.

The committee report showed that there are about 235,000 crossings of railroad and automobile traffic ways on the same grade, on which, in 1927, there were 5,595 accidents with 2,371 persons killed and 6,613 injured.

Mr. McDonald urged the commissioners association to take a leading part in:

- Eliminating the grade crossings as fast as possible.
- Diverting traffic where possible, by means of highway relocations.
- Preventing the opening of new grade crossings where possible.
- Protecting grade crossings as rapidly as circumstances permit.
- Assisting in safety work in the schools.

A determined effort should be made to reduce the number of crossings at which there is no form of warning, he said; either an automatic signal, flagman or gates should be installed at each one. He said that Wisconsin had adopted, as standard, the wig-wag form of signal, where signals are used and cited findings of the safety factor as reasons for this step.

Wisconsin has also adopted the federal road markers for railroad crossing warnings, said the Badger commissioner and many of the state's counties are accepting the same signs for use on county roads. He urged this adoption as providing a standard which all motorists might readily recognize, regardless of their length at which their travels might take them from the signs they know.

Just bring your feet. We'll make them step. 12 Cor's., Sunday.

THE APPLETON POST-CRESCENT OFFERS TO ITS READERS A BOOKLET ON WELL-BALANCED DIETS.

Are you serving well-balanced meals? The problems of food selection often cause the conscientious housewife a good deal of worry. Adequacy, wholesomeness, attractiveness, and cost must all be considered.

The government booklet entitled Good Proportions in the Diet covers thoroughly every detail of food selection. It tells what kinds of food are needed, gives the proportions and amounts of food required, and suggests a number of menus for well-balanced meals.

Every woman who is responsible for the meals of a household should have a copy of this booklet. Send for yours today. Fill out and mail the coupon below, enclosing four cents in coin or stamps for return postage and handling.

Fads Speeding Up Death Rates Among Young Girls

Madison.—(P)—Fads are speeding up the death rates among girls between 15 and 20 years of age in Wisconsin. About one-third of all girls dying from all causes between these ages in Wisconsin die from tuberculosis. Twice as many girls between these ages die from tuberculosis as compared with the rate among boys. For the past four years an average of 349 boys and 96 girls between 15 and 20 have died of tuberculosis in this state. With new tabulations just compiled by the State Board of Health at Madison, the educational committee of the State Medical Society today issued a warning to parents to give stricter attention to the health of their daughters.

Three main causes are listed for the increase:

- 1—Insufficient sleep. Young married women attempting to hold down an office job and do housework at home.
- 2—Lack of nutritious food. There is little energy for a growing girl in a fried cake and a cup of coffee for breakfast.
- 3—Light summer clothing has its advantages, but in winter months the average Wisconsin girl is insufficiently dressed to play out of doors.

Records of the State Board of Health show:

(Age group 15 to 19 years)

1924.....	48 male	94 female
1925.....	45 male	97 female
1926.....	59 male	106 female
1927.....	42 male	90 female
Average 4 years	49 male	96 female

"What are the factors leading to the high death rate of our growing girls?" asks the bulletin of the Wisconsin State Medical Society. "The answer to this question is neither simple, nor is it certain we have a complete and correct answer."

"The most important cause leading to this situation is a lack of sufficient rest. These are the years of high school and early college work of our growing girls. These are also the years in which a large number of our girls enter industry, taking some position that usually brings in sufficient income to clothe and feed themselves and supply spending money. Sometimes the young wage earner must contribute to the support of the family. Quite frequently she holds two positions, doing her housework in the early morning and in the evening hours. She uses up her nervous and physical energy too rapidly. She gets into insufficient sleep to permit the body to be restored to normal. Gradually her vital energy is sapped and tuberculosis, which is a disease of those whose resistance has been lowered may develop.

"The second important factor is nutrition. The average growing girl eats an insufficient amount of the right food to give proper nourishment to the body. If we are going to correct the nutrition of our growing boys and girls we must teach them to drink more milk, eat more fresh cereals, more dark bread, more fruit and, in most cases, less meat and less sweets.

"The third cause may be found in the present style of girls' clothing. During the summer months the present mode of dress of our girls has a distinct advantage because the body gets more sunshine and is more constantly bathed in fresh air, but in the winter months the average girl in Wisconsin is insufficiently dressed for the out of doors."

Hotan-Tonka, well known Indian lore expert and impersonator, will talk to Appleton high school students at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 27, in conjunction with his series of presentations in this city on that day, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. He is to present a short talk on Indian life after which he will give several demonstrations.

Tuesday noon he will address a joint meeting of the Lions, Rotary, and Kiwanis clubs at Conway hotel, and in the evening he will give his feature presentation for the public in Appleton high school auditorium. The speaker is to appear in several other valley cities during his visit to Wisconsin.

STATE LEGISLATURE JOBS ARE NOT OPEN TO WOMEN EMPLOYES

and Number Is Limited by Law

Madison.—(P)—Wisconsin's legislature is a novelty. Some of its critics will chortle over that and look for more, but this is only a recitation of that portion of the novelty which concerns the mechanics of the session.

No women are employed, the men employed are all under civil service and there can be no "stacking" of the legislature's payrolls because the number employed is limited by the law.

A. E. Geray, state civil service commission executive, is making public his annual hunt for male stenographers, said that to his knowledge Wisconsin is the only state that has all these provisions and probably the only state which has any of them.

In most states, he said the legislature may freely cater to the will of the senators and lower house members, who have brought "little Mary Jones," daughter of their neighbor or campaign helper, to the Capitol to find legislative work for her. This generally results in scores of needless helpers on the state payroll, Mr. Geray said. He also pointed to the Wisconsin law as keeping undesirable women from the Capitol during the legislature.

But the law doesn't bring only roses, in Mr. Geray's case. He must find skirtless stenographers; males who are as proficient in the arts of shorthand and typing as scores of girls who would otherwise be applicants for the jobs.

Mr. Geray must somehow find 22 of the men who can pass the civil service tests that are to be held in central points over the state Dec. 8.

TEAR UP RAILS BACK OF LOCAL PAPER MILL

Section workers of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company are tearing up an old section of rails and ties in the rear of the Atlas mill of the Kimberly-Clark company. The track is being razed as far as the railroad trestle which intersects with the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific road in the middle of the Fox river. It is expected the old trestle will be razed in the spring.

PATROLMEN PREPARING HIGHWAYS FOR WINTER

Road patrolmen in the town of Center this week are putting highways in shape for winter months. Ruts are being filled and final grading is being done. J. W. Bauwmann is the first to finish his section of highway. About a quarter of a mile of road near the town hall has been graded and all the roads are expected to be in good shape within a few days and ready for winter months.

This is next to the largest number of the legislative employees. The applications must result in 27 messengers.

Besides the messengers, the civil service commission is giving tests for two bookkeepers who will be record clerks, two assistants for these men, two general clerks and two journal clerks, two assistants to the latter, two index clerks and two mailing clerks. Wages for three men are scheduled at $5 a day, but the legislature may increase the wages.

One cloak room attendant, two custodians of document rooms, one assistant, two gallery attendants, four night laborers, one post office messenger, two policemen, one photostat operator, two postmasters, four proofreaders, two assistants to the sergeants at arms, seven typists and two night watchmen, complete the staff of the legislative hall.

OCTOBER TRAFFIC ON RIVER HEAVIER

Locks Opened 514 Times
More Than for Corresponding Month Last Year

Traffic on the Fox river between De Pere and Portage was much heavier during October than it was in the same month a year ago, according to A. F. Everett, government engineer. Locks between the two points were opened 514 more times last month as compared to October, 1927, and 100,158 more tons of freight and 113 more passengers were carried.

During the past month the locks were opened 4,045 times while a year ago 3,531 lockages were reported. Approximately 587,100 tons of freight were transported between De Pere and Portage during October of this year while a year ago 486,910 tons were shipped. Four hundred and thirty passengers were carried between these two points during October of this year, while during the same month a year ago, 317 passengers were transported.

Most of the traffic was between De Pere and Menasha. The heaviest freight was carried between De Pere and Kimberly, the bulk of it being coal and lumber. Most of the passengers traveled between Kaukauna and Menasha, according to the report.

There was more traffic on the upper Fox river between Menasha and Portage during October of this year as compared to the same month a year ago. Last year the locks between the two points were opened four times while this year 20 lockages were reported.

SANATORIUM IS VALUED AT $54,701

Report of Inventory Committee Is Presented to County Board

The value of the Outagamie-county Riverview sanatorium grounds and buildings at Combined Locks is $54,701.91, according to a report presented to the county board this week by sanatorium inventory committee.

Members of this committee are Supervisors John Diederich, William Powers, and Arnold Krueger.

The county owns 8.88 acres of land on which the sanatorium is situated and this property is valued at $4,275. The building is estimated at $30,000 and improvements during the past year are estimated at $4,303. These improvements include work on the heater and boiler, improving the porches, beautifying the grounds, building a new chimney, and installing a water softener. The value of furniture and fixtures is $17,521.91.

Operating costs of the sanatorium for the past year were $33,951.66, while receipts were $34,342.22, according to the annual report of the sanatorium trustees which also was presented this week. Trustees are F. J. Harwood, Appleton, H. J. Versteeg, Little Chute, and Dr. C. D. Boyd, Kaukauna.

Receipts for the year were as follows: state aid, $15,591; pay from outside patients, $264; county aid, $18,358.47; miscellaneous, $38.75.

This money was expended as follows: Salaries, $13,161.30; food, $10,008.35; general expenses, $1,811.73; heating, lighting and power, $3,070.80; medical expenses, $1,051.51; dormitory expenses, $3,279.14; kitchen and dining room expenses, $472.13; maintenance and repairs, $548.72; equipment, $553.27; surplus, $390.26.

Seventy patients were cared for at the sanatorium the past year and these people spent a total of 1,543 weeks in the institution or an average of more than 20 weeks each, according to the annual report of Dr. C. D. Boyd, medical director. Dr. Boyd pointed out that this average compares favorably with the averages for other counties of the state.

Dr. Boyd divided the patients in three stages to show the results obtained by their stay at the sanatorium. In stage one there were nine patients and nine were improved and in seven the disease was arrested; in stage two there were 17 patients and 17 were improved and 11 the disease was arrested; in stage three there were 44 patients, 15 were improved, in four the disease was arrested, 29 failed and 10 died.

Ten patients were discharged with their health restored to such extent that they could resume their duties. Miss Catherine Fox, the sanatorium's "out-patient" nurse keeps in touch with these people and also assists in locating new cases. Dr. Boyd said the greatest handicap in the work was in finding cases early enough so that material results could be obtained. He urged more clinics and more publicity as aids in this direction.

EXCAVATION FOR BUILDING DONE

Work on New College-ave Structure Will Be Started Immediately

Excavating for the new J. R. Whitman building on W. College-ave, at the site where the old J. T. McCann building stood, was completed Wednesday morning by a large steam shovel. The building is to be leased to the J. C. Penny company. The new structure will extend to the alley in the rear. The old structure, which was razed several weeks ago, occupied only half of the lot.

Work on the new building will be started immediately. The new structure when completed is to be two stories high and will be constructed of face brick and white art stone. Both floors will be used by the Penny company. The main office will be on the second floor over the show windows, according to Mr. Whitman manager of the Appleton store.

BOY PATROLMEN DON'T STAND IN STREETS

"Members of school boy patrols do not stand in the middle of the street to direct traffic," states H. G. Adrian, manager of the local branch of the Wisconsin automobile association, in an effort to dispel the impression of many Appleton citizens that the boys themselves are being exposed to the dangers of traffic in the performance of their duty. "All direction of traffic is from the sides of the street, and the thoroughfare is absolutely cleared before a member of the patrol either gives the signal to pass or, assists his fellow classmates across the street."

Cars Damaged
Two cars were slightly damaged about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in a collision in front of 414 W. College-ave. Fred Borchert, route 3, Appleton, driving west on College-ave collided with a machine owned and driven by Arthur Schwab, Appleton, who was backing from the curb. A fender was damaged on Schwab's car and the front end of Borchert's car was damaged.

SAFETY COMMITTEE WILL PLAN PROGRAM

Group Will Convene to Out- line Plans for Foreman's Safety School

The executive committee of the Fox River Valley Safety school conference will meet at Appleton Vocational school the first part of next week to arrange a program for the third annual Foreman's Safety school for local industrial plants, according to Harry F. Menzel, former deputy of the Wisconsin Industrial commission now employed by most of the larger cities in Wisconsin to organize safety classes.

Classes will start here in January and will be held weekly until March. The final meeting is to be held in conjunction with a banquet at a place to be designated by Mr. Menzel. At that time certificates will be awarded. Classes will start at Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, and Fond du Lac.

$3,000,000 HOTEL TO BE BUILT IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee.—(P)—John R. Freuler, active in the motion picture production business for many years, Thursday announced plans for the construction of a 500 room 12-story hotel in Milwaukee to cost $3,000,000. It will be built on Second-st. near Wisconsin-ave, on the present site of the Langtry-McBride building. Freuler is president of the Big Four Film company and the Sterling Motion Picture Apparatus company of New York.

CHURCH SCHOOL CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS

Three topics are to be presented and officers are to be elected at a meeting of the church school superintendents club at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 Monday evening. A Church and Sunday school census is to be presented by C. O. Davis. The leadership training school by Mrs. P. P. Stallman and Sunday school music by Dr. E. L. Baker, director of public school music. A discussion of the topics will follow their presentation.

ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SYBIL THORNE, most disillusioned of brides, has deserted her husband on their honeymoon. RICHARD EUSTIS, dangerously fascinating, persuades her to marry him, after five days' tempestuous courting. Immediately following the wedding he begins to drink and breaks Sybil's heart on her marriage night. She leaves him in Havana, where they had gone following their mad wedding on shipboard—but not until she has reason to believe he is an out and out rotter. She goes immediately to MABEL BLAKE, a social worker, who accompanied her on the trip from home.

Mabel, meantime, has become engaged to an American working in Havana—JACK MOORE. They listen, horrified by the thing Sybil tells them and Mabel agrees to sail with her that afternoon for Boston.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

Like strangers Sybil and Mabel looked at each other and seemed embarrassed. Until suddenly, with one of her swift changes of mood, Sybil advanced like a field marshal on Mabel's wardrobe.

"Oh, God," she prayed, "help me to be hard boiled! Wake up, Mab! Help me swing this trunk around. Pack your hats and your toilet things. I'll get your dresses on the hangers. A little speed, if you're sailing with me!"

With incredible swiftness the hours flew. Three hours later they followed their trunks aboard, while whistles blew and the gangplank, under their very feet, began to tremble and to move. On the pier Jack Moore wiped his glistening pate and swore he'd seen a miracle.

"You see," explained Mabel, "the lamb never saw me hurry before."

They stood on the deck together, their faces toward the shining city. And Mabel waved her little handkerchief until Jack was only a dot in the distance.

"Well, Mab," Sybil tucked her arm through her friend's. "It was an exciting vacation anyhow."

Mabel turned her back to the distant land. Smouldering turquoise and gleaming sapphire and all the sunset hues that shone on buildings of pink and blue and yellow. Morro Castle in a sea of jade and the city beyond all bathed in golden light.

"My dear," she said in her best social service manner, "that's no way to talk. You must try not to be bitter. But don't, I beg of you, be frivolous!"

Sybil, swallowing a perilous lump in her throat, dabbed at her eyes with a bit of lace. Her chin quiv-ered and she caught her lower lip between her teeth.

"Well, I don't feel so darn Pollyannish about it—I'll tell you that I'd like to crawl into my little berth back there and howl to heaven. But what's the use, Mab? You've got to snap your fingers at Fate, old dear—or Fate will darn soon knock you out."

"Sybil, have you thought of Craig lately?"

"My dear, I haven't thought of anybody else. It took Richard to make me appreciate him. A lot of good that will do me—now."

"Do you suppose you'll marry him, Sib?"

"Heavens above, Mabel, I've had enough of marriage."

"But it would be different with Craig."

"I know it would. But I can't even think about it. You see I'm already married. Whether I like it or not, I have a husband. It doesn't make any difference that he drinks and chases Isabella. He's my husband just the same. Unless I get a divorce!"

"Oh, my dear, wouldn't that give Boston something to talk about! Wouldn't they love it! Wouldn't Val just eat it up! And Mrs. Carington and the Caswells. And all the girls who want Craig and can't get him. And the crowd at the Country Club."

Sybil sighed profoundly. "I guess I've fixed things this time, Mab. I guess I've wrecked my little old life forever."

Mabel said nothing at the time, but shortly she began to talk divorce. After dinner that night she found a sequestered corner for their deck chairs and to Sybil's great amazement, proceeded calmly to advocate an immediate divorce.

"I don't know how you'd go about it," she admitted. "But aren't they awfully easy things to get in Paris? In this country there's something about establishing a residence—that is, you have to live for a certain length of time wherever you file suit. So that ducking out of Boston wouldn't do much good. People would know anyhow. But if you went over to Paris, it could all be so quiet nobody would even suspect."

Sybil laughed.

"Anybody'd think you were talking about running over to South Boston!" she joked and added plaintively, "Now, my dear, could I hop over to Paris?"

Mabel was vague.

"Oh, it could be arranged somehow. I'd love to see you out of this mess, Sybil, before Craig knows about it. By the way, did you ever write him?"

"No, I didn't. I simply couldn't. And he sent about 20 radios and things. I cabled that I'd write later—that I was awfully busy, and having a wonderful time. He knows how I hate to write letters. And I asked him not to cable any more, because it made me feel awfully guilty."

"I said he was just ruining my vacation, making me feel that I ought to write him. My dear, it cost me $16 and I felt like a perfect criminal. But it worked. Poor old Craig. He told me to have a good time and forget all about him—just to let him know when we were coming home."

"You could wireless him now."

"Oh, I couldn't. I'd feel like such a hypocrite. You know, Mab, I'm awfully surprised at you. Sybil eyed her friend sternly. "There you are, urging a married woman back to her lover. Boosting divorce and snapping your fingers at respectability."

"Oh, Sybil," Mabel protested amiably. "I could forgive my husband for getting drunk. I could forgive him for a villainous temper. I could forgive him for telling the same old stories over and over again—you know, my dear, Jack does that. I could scream sometimes. I could forgive him for committing murder, or robbing a bank, or throwing cigarette ashes on the rug. I could forgive him for lying."

"But there are two things I could never forgive. And one of them would be for being mean and stingy; and the other would be for going with another woman. Generosity and fidelity—the cardinal virtues for husbands. If my husband did what Richard did, I'd kill him. I know I would."

Sybil's eyes grew thoughtful.

"Yes . . . you would," she said, "if you loved him. But you see, Mab, I didn't care much. People think that the opposite of love is hate. That isn't so at all. It's indifference."

It was strange that Sybil was sear-sick that first night out. The ocean was like a mill pond.

"I can't understand it," she moaned, tossing restlessly in their stuffy stateroom. "I felt so well coming down, all through the storm off Havana, when everybody was sick."

"It's probably your nerves," con-sold Mabel. "You've been through a dreadful experience, you know—and I suppose it's a sort of physical reaction."

But next morning Sybil was not able to go down for breakfast, and Mabel had the steward bring a tray to their stateroom.

"Griddle cakes," he said, uncovering a steaming plate, "and sausages."

"Oh, take them away, please. If I smell them I'll die."

Hastily he retreated, and Mabel, with a worried line between her eyes, peered at the tray. There was a doctor aboard. Perhaps she could talk with him.

"Here, dear, suck on this," she suggested. "It can't hurt you. Still feeling pretty rocky?"

"Mab, I never realized anyone could feel so rotten—honest. Funny— isn't it? The sea's like a lake."

"But, my dear, emotional experiences affect the body, you know. That poor old machinery of yours has been through a lot in the last month. You can't blame it for kicking up a little."

Sybil was considering. She wondered if the poor girl was worried. Why—why did such awful things happen to Sybil? Well, she would see that doctor.

As she fell in step beside him, she explained.

"I knew you were a doctor the minute I saw you. Remember we came up the gang plank together? And you smelled so nice and profes-sional. So I asked the purser your name because I wanted to ask you something."

He was a small energetic man, a bit portly, with sharp blue eyes and a very medical little beard. Extremely able looking, though a trifle pompous. Now his blue eyes twinkled.

"Well, you're a healthy looking specimen to be scraping acquaintance with a physician."

Suddenly Mabel became acutely aware of the doctor's presence.

"Oh, it wasn't about me," she stammered, and found herself blushing furiously. "It's—it's another girl."

He regarded her curiously.

"I'd like to talk to you in private!" she implored.

"Why certainly?" Dr. Henderson became immediately professional. "If there's anything I can do—"

FATHER AND MOTHER NEED TO HAVE FUN

YOU can't mileage out of an automobile that isn't kept fit. A furnace isn't going to send out heat to all parts of the house if it is out of order.

Moreover, neither the automobile nor the furnace will be of the slightest use if they are not fueled regularly.

And so it is with parents. They need re-fueling every little while. Perhaps there never has been an age as hard on parents as this one. Not only do the elevated standards of child care and child training put a tax on energy and nerves, but the years demanded are longer. A boy of 18 in the old days was ready to help with the burden at home.

HAVE SOME FUN
He helped with the farm work if he lived in the country, or he got a job and gave half of his earnings to his mother if he lived in the city. A girl stepped out of school and immediately relieved her mother of a good share of the housework.

Now if education does not actually extend on into the twenties, thus putting an extra burden on parents, young people at least step out for themselves. They may cease to be an expense, but that is the most that can be expected.

"It is an economic change that has not worked to the advantage of the parents."

And so, anticipating a middle and old age where parents must be absolutely self-dependent, it is necessary for them now to do the things that will fit them for an endurance race.

They must keep themselves fit as they go along. It is the parent who has no fun who will give way to fits of anger with the children.

NO BURDEN AT 18
Don't pay any attention to carpers who criticize you, busy mothers, for going out to a card club once a week. Go on and go.

And go to movies, or concerts, or evening parties, fathers and mothers. Have some fun.

Any and all of these things can be carried to extreme. But I am not going to preach. It is understood that I'm talking to the parents who arrange for the children first and their own pleasure afterward.

But arrange I should. You need to laugh. You need to be happy. You need to mix with other people once in awhile.

Out of every week I should budget enough time for myself to keep me on an emotional level.

The children will benefit as well as yourselves.

CLEAN WOODWORK
Tea water is excellent for cleaning woodwork. Pour water over used tea leaves, strain through muslin and use it with a cloth. This does not hurt woodwork.

France's First Woman Lawyer Visits America

Barrister-sportswoman Suzanne Grinberg laughs at "swift" American justice.

NEW YORK -- A feminist has arrived in America who gallantly credits her husband with having furnished her courage to launch her career.

She is the charming, witty and able Suzanne Grinberg, France's first woman lawyer when she was admitted to the bar in 1910.

"I was very young when I finished my law courses and was so self-conscious at being the only woman in the profession that I am sure I never would have started practicing if my husband, 'dear old dad,' as she calls him, hadn't encouraged me," Madame Suzanne smiled, telling her story with that eloquent use of her hands that only the French perfect.

A THOUSAND LAWYERS NOW
"This sage husband said to me, 'And why should being a woman keep you from being a lawyer? There will soon be other women to keep you company in court. Of course he was right. Now there are almost 1000 women lawyers' in France."

Of course few of these 1000 approach Madame Grinberg in professional standing. She is the only woman member of the Committee of the French Bar Association and the Confederation of Intellectual Workers. And she is the only woman lawyer ever to plead in a military tribunal during the military occupation of Germany.

"I have had many criminal cases," Madame Suzanne recalled. Then her piercing dark eyes lighted. "My first five murder cases were women who had killed their husbands. I got four of them off, but one received a sentence. My friends used to laughingly accuse me of being in murdering husbands."

Divorce are her specialty now. She denies that there is any feeling at all in Paris over Americans getting fly-by-night divorces there.

"We Parisians have a fine joke about our French justice since Americans come there for divorces," said she.

"We used to sigh and say, 'Justice is slow in Paris. Over in America, the land of the free, justice is swift and sure.' But now that Americans come to Paris for divorces we laugh and say, 'Oh, it is possible that French justice is, after all, swifter than American?'"

"Seriously, though," she added, "much of the talk about Paris divorces is unsound. There were only 242 divorces granted to Americans last year in Paris. It is just that they are, shall we say, your de luxe divorces. And some American lawyers feel that the cream of divorces should stay at home."

Madame Suzanne has her own ideas about divorces. She said, "Women ask for divorces too easily. I think there is no patience left in the world."

"Young girls come into my office and say to me, 'My husband and I quarreled last night. I want a divorce.' I say, if they really want a divorce, I will take the case, but why not wait, try to be patient, adjust themselves a little, a little tolerance, far to little humor, far too little consideration and patience in many modern marriages."

Madame Suzanne's law does not entirely consume her life. She and her husband and their 15-year-old son live a busy social life in Paris. And she rides horseback every day that she can.

Her superb carriage, her lit and animation testify to her outdoor recreation. She admits golfing, playing tennis, swimming and driving her own car, which she adds, is some sport in rush hours in Paris.

"I have one more ambition for sports," she said. "Some day I want to take a year off and spend it in the Alps and learn to ski. It seems to me that the spirit and grace of that sport is perfect."

Then, growing very serious for a moment, Madame Suzanne Grinberg said, "I have another ambition, a very real one. I want to vote in my country. I believe that France will have women suffrage in time."

"We feminists all want suffrage, of course. But in France we can and do have economic freedom to an increasing extent. Those is no restriction to keep women from entering any field of endeavor, for which they are fitted. Of the two, I think economic freedom is more important than suffrage. But there can be no argument against either. We French women are just waiting. And I think we will have the vote eventually."

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin
©1928 NEA Service, Inc.

"Hello, Lone Eagle! Tony called cheerfully to the tall, lank, overalled young man who was doing something to the propeller of his ship."

"Lo, Pest!" Sandy Ross retorted, tossing back the straw-colored forelock that was always falling into his brown-and-green speckled eyes. A grin of welcome was his only expression of pleasure at seeing her after her two months' absence in Canada.

"I want a lesson," Tony told him. Without a word, for Sandy was a comic to the most extreme degree, the young aviator took his place in the front seat of the plane and motioned Tony to take him in the pilot's seat. She had come dressed for this, her sixth lesson as a pilot, in a soft-leather outfit of jacket and breeches, much like a "Deerslayer" costume, but eminently practical and without ornamentation.

Half an hour later the plane taxied along the landing field and Tony received Sandy's grudging grunt of praise.

"Tough lot, me do a solo flight fly-by-night divorces there. 'We Parisians have a fine joke about our French justice since Americans come there for divorces,'" said she.

"Umm!" Sandy did not commit himself. Then he gave her a sidelong grin that made his long, tanned face oddly attractive. "Good time?"

"Sweet, but I missed you," Tony returned his grin with comradely over-enthusiasm. "I've been over with Fanny. Sandy, but I don't confide in other girls, except Crystal. Of course she gets awfully excited and thrilled and talks a lot, but—nobody like Sandy, you old grinner and grunter!"

"Cats!" Sandy dismissed girl candidates as he climbed into Tony's car and took the wheel as a matter of course. "Dinner with Mom?"

"Sure," Tony answered the implied invitation happily. "I want to see the woods again before the frost, then again after—the leaves have turned red and gold. Love woods," she grinned, mimicking Sandy's telegraphic way of talking.

They hardly spoke again until Sandy killed the engine in the lane that led to their home.

"Engaged?" he asked, with extreme casualness.

"No. Four offers, but Tony wasn't having any, thanks. Oh, Sandy, I'm afraid I'm getting sick of men—at my age! Don't you think I know when I'm ridiculous?"

"But I mean it. Maybe it's the technique varied a little, but here's the way it goes. Mr. So-and-So, this is Miss Tarver, better known as Tony and 'N. T. This is Jimmy, or Joe, or 'Slack' or 'Handsome' or 'Happy' or whatever the poor goof's nickname is. Those awful nicknames, Sandy! Then the young brute looks deep into my eyes, gives an exaggerated imitation of a drowning man, calls me by my first name, and proceeds on the theory that a twelve-hour acquaintance gives him all the privileges of an accepted suitor. Bah! You can grin if you want to."

But Sandy wasn't grinning. "Chuck it!" he advised succinctly. "But that's just it, Sandy—I can't!" Tony wailed. "Life would be flatter than the dregs of last night's ginger ale if men didn't like me. I rage about their technique, but—I guess I'm as guilty as they are!"

NEXT: Crystal's fate falls.

BEAR UP UNDER TROUBLE WITH MUCH CHEER

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Much has been written about emotional control in parents. The average parent knows now that he cannot expect to train children to the best advantage if he gives way to sudden temper or spiteful ravings or any other extremes of feeling that temporarily affect his judgment.

We think of "emotional" control as including anger, hate, jealousy, all the things that are more or less sporadic, suddenly appearing and as suddenly subsiding—the flash-in-the-pan variety of emotion.

Has it ever occurred to us that the really deadly emotions are the ones that last not from minute to minute or from hour to hour, but for long periods, sometimes of months and years' duration.

RELATED CAUSES
Sadness, depression, and worry! All these three are so closely related as to be well nigh inseparable, although the causes may be entirely different.

Depression, often, is caused by continued ill-health, of discontent brought about by a trying environment.

Worry, the commonest of all and which few of us escape, as caused mostly by money matters, although its causes may be legion.

Sadness is the deadliest of all, because it usually lasts for much longer periods and its effects are more poignantly felt in the family.

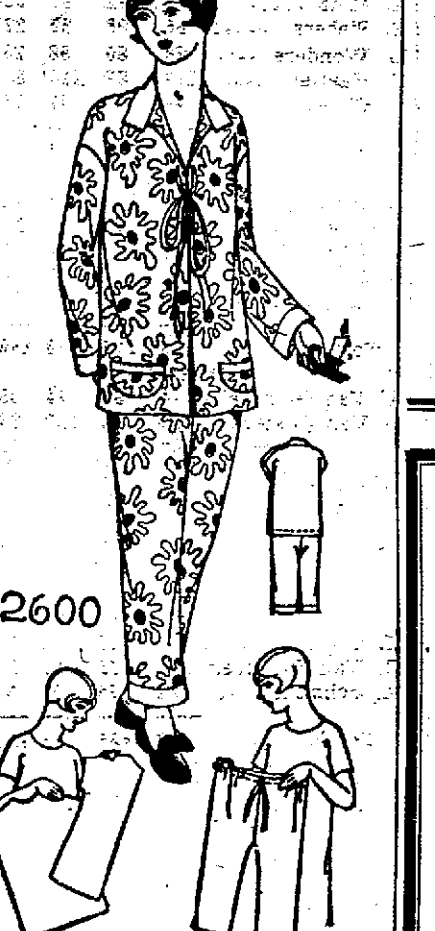

It is easy, I know, to say to parents, "You must throw off these emotions. You can't make things better by grieving, or worrying, or thinking distracted thoughts, because if you do you are going to make your family unhappy and lower your own health and efficiency." It is quite easy to talk.

But if you ask an old person, the most valuable lesson-life has taught him he will probably tell you that to be able to go on living normally in spite of one's troubles is the greatest thing of all.

Mothers who are said should try to overcome their feelings as much as possible on account of the children. Dark, sombre clothes may make one feel better, but children are infinitely susceptible to color influence.

Long, depressing hours of silence are not good for one's or for them. Cheerfulness, at first, will almost certainly become easier and more natural in time if one can make the effort.

New Pajamas

FOR WEE MAIDENS
The up-to-the-minute little miss of 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years is wearing pajamas in new jacket styling with rolled over collar and envelope patch pockets for "hanky," made of novelty cotton fabric, as sketched in printed sateen with plain contrasting used for straight collar, cuffs, edge of pockets, cuff bands of pants and bow tie. Design No. 2600 is a comfortable fashion for these wee maidens, as they also serve as a negligee, and make a really delightful outfit for the boudoir. Cotton printed crepe, satin finished cotton broadcloth in geometric pattern, striped percale, washable, rayon silk, crepe de chine and pongee are also popular with these small folk, who demand grown-up styles. They are easily made at a moderate cost, and will make an excellent Xmas gift. Pattern price 15 cents, in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly. In ordering pattern, why not enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our new Fashion Magazine. It shows the most attractive Winter styles. Also lovely suggestions for useful Xmas gifts that will be truly appreciated, that you'll find very inexpensive to make.

HOT FRUIT DRINKS FOR COLD NIGHTS

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

EVERY hostess wants to serve something in the evening after a session of bridge, but she often is puzzled as to just what to choose. Some sort of a drink and sandwich, she decides, but what to drink? Jane shuns coffee, Mary dislikes cocoa, and tea is out of the question.

However there are some delicious fruit beverages that can be served hot or cold. Sandwiches, crisp salted crackers and not too sweet cookies are delightful to serve with one of these drinks.

The guest who is reducing or gaining will welcome and enjoy a fruity drink of health.

Just at this time of year, cider is sweet and delicious and will be popular chilled in glasses or hot in mugs.

Hot mulled cider is a drink that was a general favorite with our great-grandfathers. It would be just the thing to serve with turkey sandwiches on Thanksgiving evening.

CRANBERRY NECTAR

One quart cranberries, 6 cups water, 2 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 4 oranges, 2 lemons, 1 banana, crushed ice.

Wash and pick over berries. Cook with water for 20 minutes. Strain and bring slowly to the boiling point. Sift in sugar and cook about five minutes longer. Cool and add orange and lemon juice. Chill and serve with crushed ice and slices of banana.

HOT GRAPE JUICE PUNCH

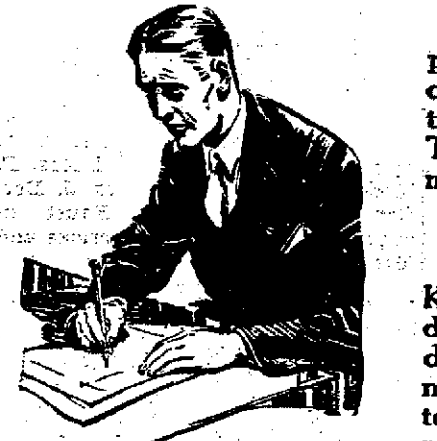

Six cups grape juice, 2 cups water, 3 lemons, 4 oranges, 1/2 cup sugar, a few grains salt.

Squeeze juice from lemons and oranges. Cut rind in thin strips and simmer with sugar and water for ten minutes. Add grape juice, lemon juice and orange juice and reheat but do not let boil. Strain and serve.

An especially attractive cold drink for this season is cranberry nectar.

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WHILE all the Tinties sailed along the wind began to blow real strong. Of course it made that little boat go hopping "cross the waves. "Hey, watch the rod-dee!" Scouty cried to Clowdy. "It's right by your side." And Clowdy snapped. "You always think of work. What are we, slaves?"

Udd made the other Tinties mad, and Clowdy said, "Well, it's too bad you've have to lift your little finger. It's a shame. You mar the pleasure that we get because you always have to fret. And when you are dissatisfied, you have yourself to blame."

"That's right," said Carpy. "Everyone should just have heaps and heaps of fun, but you are always reading things. Why don't you joke right in and smile like all the rest of us? 'Tis better than to make a fuss." Poor Clowdy seemed to understand, and he began to best to act just like all of the rest." And then he jumped and shouted. "Look! What is that in the sky?" The others gazed. Then Scouty said, "I'll shortly be right over head. We'll try to make out what it is while it is passing by."

They didn't have to wait for long till Carpy yelled, "Unless I'm wrong it is a very queer balloon." They soon found he was right. And then he added, "Mercy me! A long and dangling rope I see. An anchor's on the end of it. It's just swung into sight."

The anchor shortly swooped down low, and Scouty cried, "Whoops! Here we go. The anchor's caught our little boat. We're rising from the sea." And, sure enough, the boat rose high and seemed to head up towards the sky. The Tinties all hung on tight, as thrilled as they could be.

BREAKFAST—Stewed figs with lemon, cereal, cream, creamed eggs on toast, extra toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Beef broth with noodles, open cottage cheese sandwiches, steamed carrot pudding, milk.

DINNER—Pork tenderloin with onions, cranberry sauce, cabbage, celery and pimiento salad, apple charlotte, milk, coffee.

In place of time-honored apple sauce, cranberry sauce is served with the pork and apples used as dessert. Cranberries are especially good with this particular way of cooking the meat. The addition of onions to the dish makes a tart and highly flavored sauce desirable.

PORK TENDERLOIN WITH ONIONS

One, or 2 medium sized tenderloins, onions, crackers, salt and pepper, butter, 1-2 to 1 cup boiling water.

A small family will need one strip of tenderloin while of course a large one will need two.

Cut meat lengthwise, through the tender with a sharp knife. Pull apart until almost split in two. If one tenderloin is used, cut crosswise through the center. Put one-half, split side up, in a roaster. Cover with this layer of thinly sliced onions. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with a thin layer of coarse cracker crumbs. Place remaining piece of meat on top of this, repeating onions, seasoning and cracker crumbs and making the last layer of crackers thicker than the first one. Dot crackers with bits of butter and sprinkle lightly with two table-spoons water. Pour water in the pan and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Irish or sweet potatoes can be parboiled for 15 minutes in salted water and browned in the pan with the meat.

If two strips of tenderloin are needed, they are split but not cut in half. One whole split tenderloin is placed above the other whole split tenderloin.

THE OTHER DAY wave-lengths were shifted, all around the dial. Your favorite stations weren't in their usual places at all.

Disconcerting? Not for those who have Atwater Kent Radio, with the FULL-VISION Dial. They're finding it a great little friend in this emergency.

"FULL-VISION" means that the whole dial is visible at once. No part of it is concealed. You see all the figures at a glance, and every figure is large and plain. And what your fingers turn is the dial itself—not a secondary knob working in low gear.

So, as you turn, the programs snap in one after another. A half turn brings in all the stations within a wide range. You can catch them on the wing, so to speak, and log them according to their new positions as fast as you can move your pencil. And remember that with the Atwater Kent FULL-VISION Dial no auxiliary adjustments are necessary. The only other controls you ever touch are the switch that turns the current on and off, and the volume control.

What an advantage to Atwater Kent owners! What a vindication of the foresight that saw long ago the broadcasting stations might be shifted about and that gave Atwater Kent the FULL-VISION Dial.

You'll find the Atwater Kent 1929 all-electric set like that all the way through—simple, sound, quick, modern in every way—easy to operate, easy to listen to.

And how easy to buy! Compare prices—then see what you get in an Atwater Kent with the FULL-VISION Dial—for $77.

"I WANT to be shown," and Atwater Kent all-electric Model 40 shows him what real radio reception is. "Let's see your power," says he, and an army of stations marches across the FULL-VISION Dial. "More than power," says Model 40. "Range and selectivity. Notice how sharp and clear every station is." "Good tone, too," admits the sceptic. "But how long can you keep up performance like this?" "I'm a modest chap," answers Model 40. "You'd better ask that question of the nearly 2,000,000 families that own Atwater Kent Radio. But remember one thing: I'm 1929 improved all-electric radio." "What's more, I'm lower priced because I'm the most popular set in the world. And what's still more, the current I use from the light socket costs only a fraction of a cent an hour." "Send it out to the house," says the man from Missouri. "I'll take it." Now, Model 40 wants to talk to you. Say when.

Vikes Ready To Meet Carroll In Homecoming Game

BAYS, APPLETON BATTLE FOR VALLEY LEAGUE TITLE

COLLEGE ELEVEN HAS PRIMED FOR GAME ALL WEEK

Pioneers Lost Only One Fracas This Season; Have Strong Squad

A forty-five minute signal practice will complete Lawrence college preparations for the annual invasion of Carroll college Pioneers here Saturday afternoon in the feature attraction of the Viking homecoming.

Thursday evening the Vikes pointed through a long period of individual blocking tactics while the secondary spent a few minutes knocking down passes and then called a halt. Coach Rasmussen feeling satisfied that his eleven looked the best it has since the few days before the Marquette game early in the season.

Imbued with that old rah-rah spirit that makes itself felt every year as homecoming time comes around, the Vikings feel that they can go out Saturday and make the day one of the most interesting in Carroll's 1928 season. They realize the fans have them booked to lose by a large score but confident with the knowledge they know plenty about this gridiron game and that most of the regulars will be in tip-top physical condition, they feel it isn't out of the picture to count a touchdown or two.

Carroll has been beaten this year, 24 and 0 by Coe college of Cedar Rapids and there is not a remote chance of a Big Ten aggregation. However, the Vikes have taken no block in the stories that Carroll is coming with a bunch of cripples. In the sport vernacular that's "boloney."

Five of the Viking players will want to show their best Saturday for the game marks the end of their collegiate grid careers. Bloomer is calling signals for the last time in a college game Saturday. Fritz Schauer is tossing the ball for the last time while McNis and Bartel probably won't hear their signals called again in many a moon. And last of all Red Humphrey, a mighty reliable all-around player, will end his grid-career in the guard position.

Bartel won't be in at halfback to all indications, for although he was in a suit Thursday night it will be impossible to send him into the game. His injured knee is healing slowly but he can't be depended upon to throw his weight on the injured member without going back to the infirmary.

With Bartel gone Coach Rasmussen will have to use McNis or Barnes in the backfield, in Bar's place. However, they both are first when carrying the ball and should work in on the forward pass defense. Fischl will be at full, with Bloomer calling signals and Rasmussen playing the other half position.

The lineup gives Razz a mighty light backfield but one that can scamper with the best of the boys if it gets around the ends.

Laird and St. Mitchell will be on the ends again with Bickell and Krohn playing tackles. The former two have shown with the "best" of the gridiron, and Krohn should be able to cope with nearly any of the tackles. Bickell has been playing great ball in the last two games, showing much of the stuff he showed in early season games before he was hurt at Carleton.

Red Humphrey and Voelck will be guards while Fritz Schauer, receiving first call at center, Morton is ready to relieve Schauer if need be while Ehlert and Vincent can fill in other guard position.

Coach Rasmussen will have to hope there are few injuries Saturday for he hasn't but a handful of substitutes and they are all comparatively light. If his first stringers can hold out through the greater part of the game he'll show the folks some good football.

Carroll comes here with a team which is rated as on a par with any in recent years. The Pioneers have lost only one game this season, that to Coe. They were behind at the end of the half against Northwestern university "P's" last week but staged a comeback in the second half and ramblled through to a win.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
NUTE ROCKNE says his Notre Dames beat the Army because they played better than they know how. . . . And that Johnny O'Brien, who won the ball game, can do only one thing—jump in the air and catch a ball. . . . But he can run the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds. . . . Jimmy De Forest says Dempsey is in pretty good shape. . . . And that his arms are as fast as ever if his legs are slow. . . . Pop Stagg's Chicago team is "torn with dissension." . . . They say . . . Glasgow, the Iowa back, is the greatest back in the country cutting off the tackles. . . . And Myles McLain is so slow he blocks his own men in interference. . . . But he's good for three yards any time he gets the call.

PREPARE SENDOFF FOR UNIVERSITY GRIDDEERS FRIDAY

Thistlethwaite-Taking Squad of 40 Men on Iowa Invasion

Madison — (P) — With Governor Fred R. Zimmerman requesting that Wisconsin Citizens and more particularly University of Wisconsin students turn out for a "monster send-off rally," the Badger variety went through tapering off exercises Thursday night in preparation for the game with Iowa Saturday.

Plans are that the team being hauled to the station in the historic red wagon and receive a rousing send-off when it leaves early Friday afternoon.

Later in the day, Friday night and early Saturday morning, 3,000 Badger enthusiasts will leave for Iowa City to see their favorites buck the Hawkeyes in a game that will give the winner a certain tie for the Big Ten title.

The final practice was a light affair with Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite going over individual blocking for a long period, later, three teams went through a lengthy signal drill in which passing was practiced and then had a dummy defensive drill against freshman players.

Forty players were announced as the Badger party. William Lusby, brilliant halfback, was listed among the quarterbacks in a startling change. The team will remain in Cedar Rapids, Ia., until nearly game time and then go to Iowa City. Every man was physically ready, Trainer Fallon announced.

The team roster for the trip is: Centers, Conroy, Miller, Ahlberg, and Shomaker; guards, Kresky, Parks Linden, Connor, and Backus; tackles, Captain Wagner, Ketelaar, Blinsh, Stevens, and Rottman; ends, L. Smith, Gantenbein, Casey, Davies, Warren and Cooke; quarterbacks, Cuisinier, Behr and Lusby; fullbacks, H. Smith, Rehoboth and Fric; halfbacks, Dunaway, Rose, Sheehan, Bartholomew, K. Smith, Hayes, Oman and Davidson.

Milo Lubratovich, giant tackle, who suffered a broken ankle in the Alabama game, will make the trip with the team, but will be unable to play.

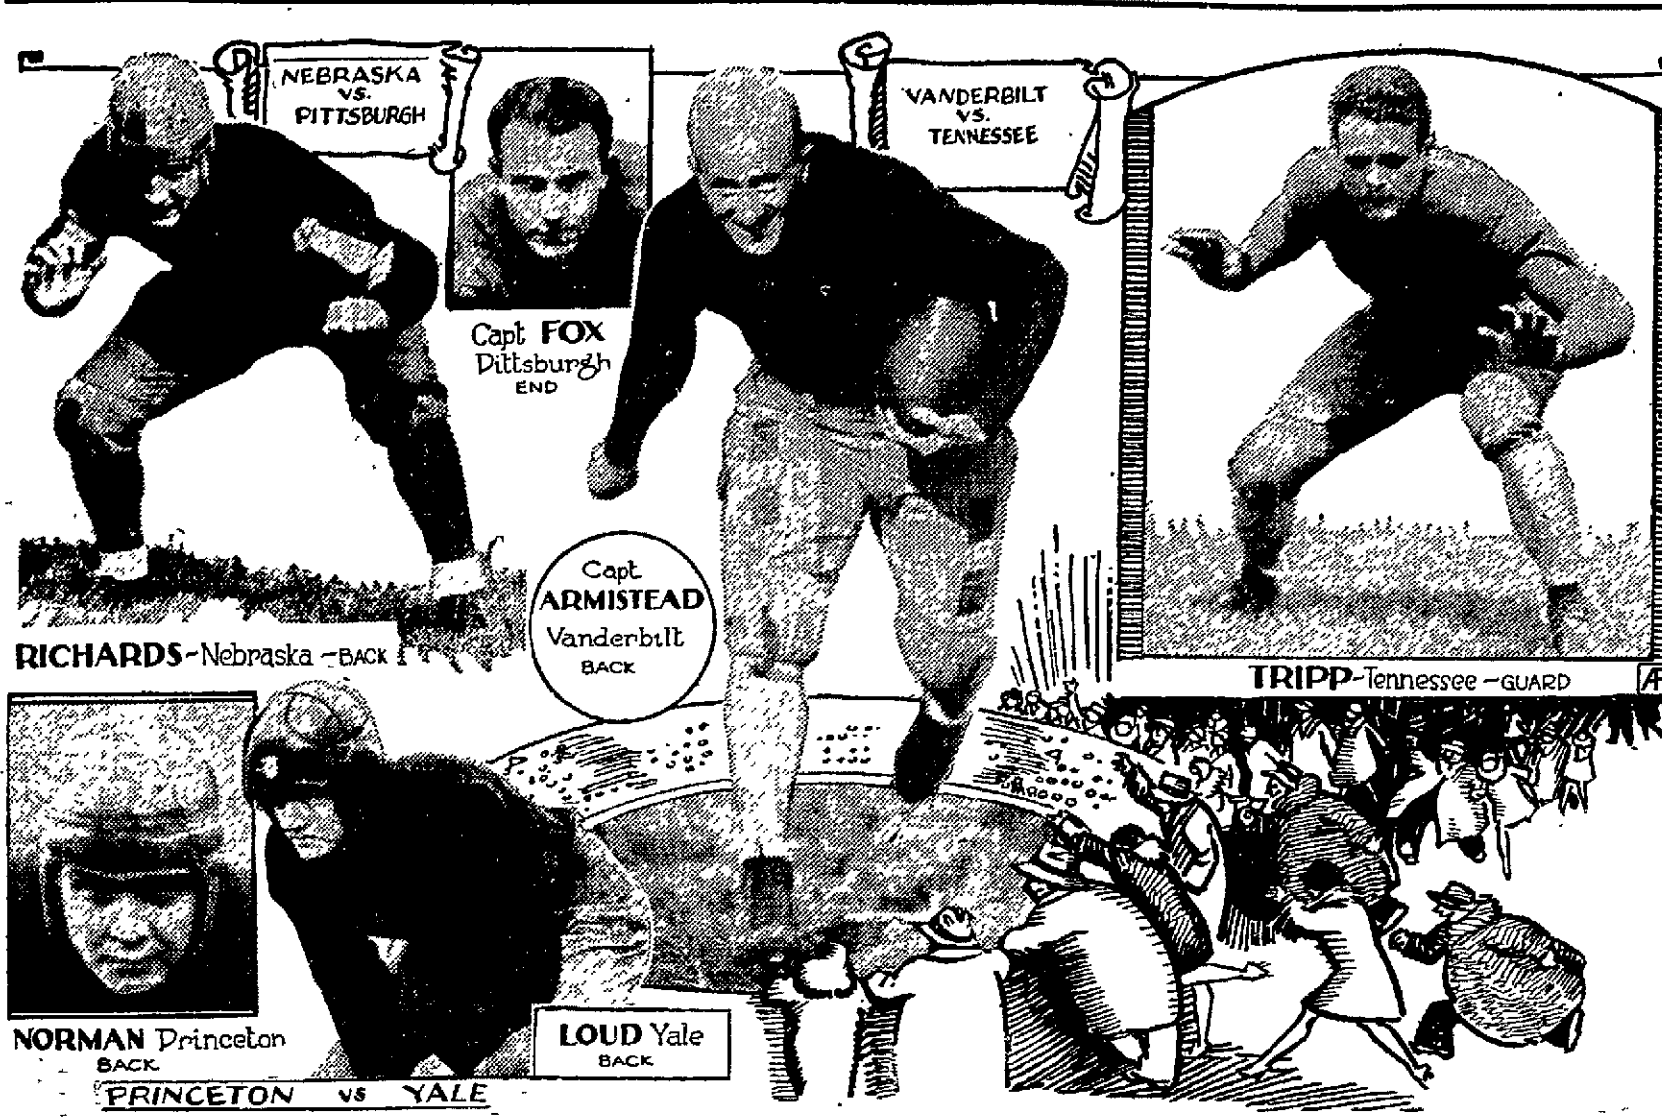

HILL AND POZELLA MEET IN ARMORY
A week from Thursday evening, Appleton wrestling fans will have the first chance in several years of seeing a couple mat artists get out and do their stuff in Armory G. The bout with feature George Hill, former favorite here and Karl Pozella, Chicago. Hill is a heavyweight and his opponent a light heavy. Reports are that the bout is the result of about a year's work on the part of Pozella's manager, Tony Tomasson. Fond du Lac and that the two grapplers will stick to their task until one cops two falls even if it takes until morning.

At the end of Wisconsin has five men, and of whom should be on a par with Reedquist and Moore. In fact, both Gantenbein and Lewie Smith have looked at times like all-conference timber and should have the edge over Ingerson's wings. Cleary, Warren and Davies also played great ball and are certain to be used part of the game.

An interesting side-light of the approaching battle will be a duel of two great fullbacks, McLain and Hal Smith. The former is heralded as the greatest plunging fullback in the middle west. There are many Wisconsin fans, however, who are waiting for their favorite, Smith, to cut loose when he is in tip-top condition. Cuisinier, the Badger quarterback, who is bidding for all-American honors, will have a worthy competitor in Armli.

The blocking halfbacks, Farroh and Sam Behr, have both attracted a great deal of attention thus far. The Hawkeyes have shown most brilliantly as an interference, while the rangy Behr also carries the ball and passes. Bill Lusby and Glasgow will bear the brunt of the offense, for both men lineup in the tail back position. The Badger is recognized as the best triple-threat performer in the Big Ten, while Glasgow has been a sensation as a ball carrier.

Oshkosh-Milwaukee Teachers (13) vs. Oshkosh Teachers (13).
Whitewater-Stout Institute vs. Whitewater Teachers.

Madison — (P) — With the Big Ten football championship in the offing for the University of Wisconsin, all Badger state football fandom is watching Iowa City, Saturday Wisconsin's Cardinal ventures in the Hawkeye lair the underdog and will attempt to upset the title-bound rushing Iowans. Should Wisconsin succeed, the school is assured of at least a tie, and then, if Minnesota falls the following week at Madison, the Badgers will take their first title since 1912.

Six other outstanding games are scheduled for Badger teams Saturday.

The task is prodigious and after a schedule that has included already three Big Ten games and contests with Notre Dame and Alabama, the Wisconsin eleven goes into the cornfield game the underdog. Iowa, surging on a crest of high, enthusiastic spirit, and after upsets of Minnesota and Ohio State is rated the probable winner, but the Badgers have been keyed for the game for the first time this season and with a dry day and fast field, their startling aerial game may turn an apparent defeat into a great victory.

Football interest is running high in Iowa, while Wisconsin has sent nearly 3,000 rooters and a 65-piece band to the scene of the game. Nearly 30,000 persons are expected to witness the game and innumerable persons are expected to hear it broadcast over a radio chain.

Wisconsin and Iowa are the only two teams in the Western Conference that are undefeated. The Badgers, however, have a tie game with Purdue university to mar their record.

Marquette university which had a highly successful homecoming game with Kansas university last Saturday by defeating the Jayhawks 7 to 0, will attempt to avenge a 1927 defeat given it by Creighton university Omaha, Neb. The two teams meet in Marquette stadium Saturday afternoon.

In the state teachers college conference, but twice tied, Oshkosh pedagogues play host to Milwaukee State Teachers college Saturday. The Oshkosh eleven has lost only to the University of Wisconsin "E" team this year and tied Stevens Point Normal, and the Whitewater Teachers.

Coach Percy Clapp of the Milwaukee eleven has seen his team win four successive games, but is apprehensive as to the outcome of the game Saturday. Although unbeaten, Oshkosh has been eliminated from the state teachers race in view of the two ties, while Superior and Stevens Point Teachers colleges have only one tie game to mar their records.

MARQUETTE AND CREIGHTON WILL MEET SATURDAY

Rivalry Between Two Schools Has Existed 18 Years

Milwaukee—The game of games for the teams of the two schools it concerns is scheduled for Milwaukee Saturday with the Marquette university Golden Avalanche lining up against the Creighton university Bluejays of Omaha, Neb., in the Marquette stadium at 2 p. m.

Due to their old rivalry, Marquette-Creighton games always are classics and this year's will be no exception. The two teams have been meeting off and on for eighteen years, and Saturday's tilt will mark the fourteenth game between them. Marquette has won seven, Creighton took five, and one was a tie.

The only direct comparison that can be made between the two teams favors Creighton. The Bluejays walked the Oklahoma Aggies, 37 to 0, while the Hilltoppers also looked good against the southerners and won, 26 to 0. The Omaha eleven otherwise has had tough sledding but appeared to be back in form last Saturday when the University of Utah gridgers, undefeated champs of the Rocky Mountain conference, were tied, 7 to 7. The Jays evened the game when Clyde Rombach, veteran plunging fullback, went ninety yards for a touchdown.

Marquette hopes to stop the Creighton invasion and in scrimmage this week the locals have drilled against the Bluejays' type of offense. The westerners use Notre Dame football, including the famous Rockne shift, and it was this style of football which enabled the Omahans to win from the blue and gold last year, 14 to 0. Coach Frank J. Murray also has given his squad several new plays which may be tried against the Nebraskans.

Suede Gebert, Marquette's All-American captain, will continue at quarterback on Saturday, with Shorty Mendelson and Bob Crowley as halves, and Francis Deig, as fullback Deig, making his first varsity start last Saturday, was a sensation and added greatly to Marquette's offensive power. He also proved able on defense, being especially alert against enemy passes.

Most of Marquette's injured men are back in shape, and the squad will be almost at full strength against Creighton.

Fights Last Night

Cincinnati—Eddie Anderson, Cody, Wyo., outpointed Tommy Murray, Philadelphia, (10), Nick Broglio, Herndon, Ill., outpointed Howard Mitchell, Cincinnati, (10). Johnny Moore, Pittsburgh outpointed Young Lupo, Cincinnati, (4).

Tulsa, Okla.—Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., knocked out Quintin Rojas, Chile, (2).

Elam, Pa.—Joey Scalfaro, New York, outpointed Dave Adelman, Philadelphia, (8).

Ottumwa, Ia.—Eddie Dwyer, Atchison, Kans., knocked out Jack Nelson, Memphis, Tenn., (2).

St. Louis, Mo.—Gerald "Tuffy" Griffiths, Sioux City, knocked out Jimmy Mahoney, Chicago (3).

On paper there is no reason for the Orange to lose or even tie Saturday. They have a heavy line that can play if it wants to, and they have a secondary that has been doing nothing but stopping passes all week until they now are knocking down pigskins in their sleep. It's going to be a great game!

NEITHER TEAM BEATEN DURING SEASON'S PLAY

Popp Goes to Tackle to Bolster Up Orange Line; Berg at Quarter

Going about their work with a new seriousness, Appleton high school gridgers are ready for the battle that will decide the Fox River valley conference title Saturday afternoon. The local aggregation will hook up with East Green Bay at the Bay stadium and when it's all over only one of the two teams will be undefeated.

Too, the Orange eleven has a couple potential all-conference players and if the boys are to be picked for the mythical posts, they'll have to strut their best against the Bays. The Shieldsmen have everything to win Saturday and must give their best.

Two weeks' practice against East Green Bay formations has put the Orange in a position where they are primed to the limit for Saturday's game. A week ago they worked against the Bay line smashing formations and during the last week have drilled on downing the Bay passes.

It's a fairly battered up lineup that Coach Shields will take north with him. Rankin, who will be called upon to play center has been ailing all week with a bad hip received against Kaunkauna while several others of the squad also have been nursing bruises and bumps.

One change has been made in the Orange line. Popp, who formerly played fullback has been moved to tackle to give all the weight and fight possible to the line. He's new at the position but has played football long enough to keep from being outgassed by the Bays.

Schaefer and DeYoung probably will get the call at the ends although Elias again is ready to perform at his old position after being ill for two weeks. Kramhold and Popp will be tackles, Reetz and Breitrick or Winters guards. The lineup then leaves Downers and Minischmidt as substitutes for the line jobs.

Coach Shields' backfield probably will be one of the strongest he's had to send out to the field this season. Berg will be back at quarter having recovered from his charley horses and with his open field running should cause the Bays plenty of trouble.

However, Bobby Kunitz again will come in for the ball totting burden and will be counted upon to count for the locals. Crane too, will come in for a heavy session of running while Barman will have to bear the burden as fullback. The back field lineup is one of the fastest in the valley conference.

'Beat East' has been the watchword around the high school all week and a large delegation of fans will accompany the team.

On paper there is no reason for the Orange to lose or even tie Saturday. They have a heavy line that can play if it wants to, and they have a secondary that has been doing nothing but stopping passes all week until they now are knocking down pigskins in their sleep. It's going to be a great game!

MUCH ADO ABOUT SEVERAL THINGS

Despite the fact we decided last week we'd quit guessing scores of games and would do like a great number of the boys, suggest that this team will win but probably their opponents will cop, we've decided to go back to the old stuff of guessing figures. And with the aid of our trusty helper this is what we see for Saturday:

- Carroll 20, Lawrence 0.
- Appleton 13, East Green Bay 7.
- Manitowoc 12, Sheboygan 7.
- Oshkosh 20, Marinette 0.
- Fond du Lac 12, West Green Bay 0.
- Iowa 14, Wisconsin 0.
- Illinois 20, Chicago 0.
- Coe 6, Knox 0.
- Cornell 20, Monmouth 0.
- Marquette 12, Creighton 6.
- Northwestern 12, Indiana 7.
- Georgia Tech 20, Carnegie 6.
- Dartmouth 7, Cornell 0.
- Harvard 14, Holy Cross 0.
- Army 98, Carleton 6.
- N. Y. U. 14, Missouri 6.
- Yale 14, Princeton 6.

The Lawren-Carroll game may be lower, in our opinion, depending on how much football sense the Vikes show Saturday. Appleton high should stop East Green Bay's passes and her line should stop the plunging attack. Consequently if Coach Shields' trick plays work, the highs will count. Iowa has succeeded in stopping everything in the book this fall and Wisconsin hasn't anything new.

HEENEY FIGURES HE'S NEXT CHAMP

Says He Learned Lesson in Tunney Bout and Can Win Now

Toronto, Ont.—(P)—Tom Heenev thinks he will be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The brawny blacksmith who took a terrific trouncing from Gene Tunney in the latter's farewell ring appearance last summer, says he believes he can enter any heavyweight elimination tournament and emerge the sole survivor.

"The bout I had with Tunney taught me a great deal," Tom said here Thursday when he arrived with his bride on the last lap of a round-the-world-honeymoon tour. "I made a lot of mistakes in that fight that I'll never make again."

Heenev now is headed for New York where he will start intensive training for what he hopes will be a busy winter campaign.

Badgers And Hawks Look Even On Paper

Madison—Iowa's forward pass defense and Wisconsin's line play on the defensive are two factors which will go a long way toward determining the Big Ten leader in the all-important grid battle at Iowa City Saturday. The Hawks will encounter the best forward passing team they have played thus far, while the Badgers must stop the greatest driving eleven on their schedule.

They will be generally agreed that Burt Ingerson's outfit should take the measure of Wisconsin, some have overlooked Thistlethwaite's team because of their early season tie with Purdue. The heavy Iowa line outweighs the Cardinal forwards decidedly and the Hawks backs seem to possess more power in the running attack.

However, on paper, a study of the two teams, man for man, might prove that the Badgers will give Iowa a better ball game than many fans believe. Capt. Brown of Iowa is given an edge over "Slim" Conry at center, due in the main to the former's experience. However, a conference scout emphatically pronounced recently that the lanky Cardinal center was the class of the middle west.

Westra and Roberts, the two Iowa guards, will line up opposite Parks and Kresky. The Wisconsin duo does not carry any excess weight. Both Kresky and Parks are fast men and fighters but lighter than their Hawkeye opponents. The Badgers will use Capt. Wagner, Blinsh and Ketelaar at the tackles. In Schleusser and Jesen the Hawkeyes have two tackles who will treat the Badger trio to a busy afternoon.

At the end of Wisconsin has five men, and of whom should be on a par with Reedquist and Moore. In fact, both Gantenbein and Lewie Smith have looked at times like all-conference timber and should have the edge over Ingerson's wings. Cleary, Warren and Davies also played great ball and are certain to be used part of the game.

An interesting side-light of the approaching battle will be a duel of two great fullbacks, McLain and Hal Smith. The former is heralded as the greatest plunging fullback in the middle west. There are many Wisconsin fans, however, who are waiting for their favorite, Smith, to cut loose when he is in tip-top condition. Cuisinier, the Badger quarterback, who is bidding for all-American honors, will have a worthy competitor in Armli.

The blocking halfbacks, Farroh and Sam Behr, have both attracted a great deal of attention thus far. The Hawkeyes have shown most brilliantly as an interference, while the rangy Behr also carries the ball and passes. Bill Lusby and Glasgow will bear the brunt of the offense, for both men lineup in the tail back position. The Badger is recognized as the best triple-threat performer in the Big Ten, while Glasgow has been a sensation as a ball carrier.

Coach Percy Clapp of the Milwaukee eleven has seen his team win four successive games, but is apprehensive as to the outcome of the game Saturday. Although unbeaten, Oshkosh has been eliminated from the state teachers race in view of the two ties, while Superior and Stevens Point Teachers colleges have only one tie game to mar their records.

The LaCrosse Teachers college will step out of conference circles to engage Columbia college, Dubuque, Ia., tomorrow. Last year the teams played a 13 to 12 tie game. Stout Institute and Whitewater State Teachers college are to meet on the Wal-

MANY ELEVEN TO FIGHT FOR LIVES IN WEEKEND GAMES

Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech Hold Center of Attraction in East

New York.—(P)—Coming into the home stretch of the football season, many teams Saturday will be fighting for their competitive lives. Army and Navy are the exceptions for the two service teams have scheduled opponents good enough to be interesting but not believed dangerous to the peace of mind.

Army will tune up for Nebraska by playing Carleton of Minnesota while Navy takes on Loyola of Baltimore in preparation for Princeton a week away.

In the leading traditional game, just 15 years old, Princeton will forget all about its 0 to 0 tie with Virginia and a 6 to 6 deadlock with Ohio State if the Tigers can turn back Yale.

Notre Dame's defeat of Army has brought the game with Carnegie at South Bend to the front bank for the tars from Pittsburgh have not been stopped.

The Pittsburgh eleven has not defeated Notre Dame at South Bend but it turned the trick on its own grounds. Captain Harper, now a full-fledged star, played a big part in the 1928 defeat of the Rockneless Notre Dame team and is the ace of the invaders.

The game between undefeated Iowa and Wisconsin teams will have a lot to do with determining the title holder of the Western conference.

The Hawkeyes were better last year but now they are carrying an added burden of being at the top of the heap, a target for all comers.

The Southern conference leaders, Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Florida, have opponents who can not be regarded lightly. Dixie observers, however, expect the Tech Yellow Jackets to win from Alabama by about the same margin as last year, two touchdowns, while Florida is given an edge over Clemson by critics outside of South Carolina.

where Clemson is touted to stop the march of the Alligators. The clash of two Tennessee elevens, the university of Tennessee and Vanderbilt, should furnish enough football for two games.

In the far west there is a matter of state's rights to be decided between California and Washington with California perhaps in better position, Stanford will play the University of Washington while Southern California meets Washington State.

Big Ten Coaches Fight Against Over-Confidence

Hawks Treating Wisconsin Lightly, Illini. Scoffs at Chicago

Chicago.—(P)—Over-confidence of his Iowa pigskin warriors is worrying Coach Burt Ingwersen more than Wisconsin's heralded passing and running attack.

Inoculated by victories over Chicago, Minnesota and Ohio State Iowa appears too confident of a triumph over the Badgers Saturday to suit Ingwersen, who years ago taught by his old teacher, Bob Zuppke of Illinois, that over-confidence can beat any good team.

All week long, the Iowa coach has attempted to slap down the optimistic wave, but the only help he has had come from a Cedar Rapids fortune teller, who forecasts a Wisconsin victory. Freshmen, armed with Wisconsin plays, have been stopped almost in their tracks this week by the varsity.

Iowa City, scene of the game which may decide the Big Ten football championship for 1928, was crowded Friday, with the advance guard of the throng that plans to watch the clash and odds were strongly in favor of Iowa.

Meanwhile, Wisconsin kept plugging along with its passing game and seemingly had it down to perfection.

Two other invasions were on Friday in the Big Ten gridiron ranks, Illinois going to Chicago and Northwestern invading Indiana.

Coach Zuppke of Illinois, like Ingwersen, also had to fight off over-confidence, but his men got most of that knocked out of them by Michigan. DeMulling at end and Timm at halfback have been named as definitely lost for the season.

Starting under criticism of alumni for their failure to win a conference game this season, Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's Chicago team was in a fighting mood. Saturday's game is the last on Chicago's schedule.

At Ohio State, Coach Jack Wilce spent most of his time trying to find a fullback who can smear a line.

The Buckeyes play Muskingum in a non-conference affair Saturday, but are polishing for the Illinois game a week hence.

Purdue and Michigan, which play non-conference opponents Saturday, also are taking advantage of their "breathers."

VALLEY GRIDDERS STAR WITH U. FROSH

Herber, Green Bay, Catlin, Liethen, Appleton, Com-mended

Madison.—(P)—When Coach Glenn Holmes of the University of Wisconsin freshmen team sent a group of stars to the varsity a year ago, it was believed that the 1928 yearling squad would be lean, but the belief was wrong. According to the coach, the present group includes equally as many players of first string ability.

The strong points of the present freshman squad are backs, centers and end. Holmes has three ends whom he believes rank on a par with Milton Gantonbein, LaCrosse, leading wingman of last year. His centers are good passers, and his leading halfbacks are able to do all things well.

Arnold Herber, Green Bay, is the top ranking quarterback in addition to being the best passer of the freshman candidates and one of the leading punters. Herber and Russell Rehbolz, brother of Harold Rehbolz, varsity fullback, have been booting punts consistently for 55 and 60 yards. Walter Graebner, Wausau, is another promising quarterback.

There are three outstanding halfbacks, Rehbolz, whose home is in Portage, Nello Paettli, Kenosha, and Milton Bach, St. Paul, Minn. Best fullbacks are Ross Sport, Chidress, Tex.; Walter Gnabach, Chicago, and Claude Mauer, Wausau.

End positions are well-handled by Howard Jensen, Lake Forest, Ill.; Fred Pfeiffer, Chicago, and Art Short-house. Two other good men are Miro Lubratovich, Duluth, Minn., brother of Milo, varsity tackle, and Mark Catlin, Appleton.

A former Appleton central high school boy, "Moosa" Krueger, tops the centers. He is followed closely by Alois Liethen, Appleton. The guards are Jack Ferris, Chicago; Forrest Johnson, Dayton, O., and Hardt, former Proviso (Chicago) school player.

KIMBERLY CLUB QUINT PRACTICES THURSDAY

Kimberly.—The Kimberly club basketball squad held practice Thursday evening in the Clubhouse gym.

Lefty's Aces were also out in suits practicing. Both squads were drilled in passing, dribbling and shooting. Those present were: Pete Kohl, George Berger, Gundy Gunderson, Chipe Verslegen, Ed Courchane, coach; Vin Sanders, Freshier Van Handle, Gordon Welch, Earnest Miron, Clarence Lande and Jack and George Busch; for the Aces: Lefty Vander Zanden, Bobby Le May, Slim Du Chain, Spots Huntington, Monty Gossens, and Dippy DuPont. Next Monday evening the teams will again have practice. Friday night the Aces play the People's Clothing team of Appleton as a preliminary to a high school game with Denmark.

Book Of Knowledge

"Famous First Ladies"

Abigail Powers Fillmore became the mistress of the White House when her husband became president upon the death of Zachary Taylor. Her father had been a clergyman, who died when she was still young, leaving her to gain her education as best she could. In this she succeeded well and was a teacher when 28 years old, shortly before her marriage to Fillmore.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25.

In the White House Mrs. Fillmore, because of lameness, put the burdens of social formalities upon the shoulders of her young daughter.

Mrs. Franklin Pierce was the next first lady. She came to the White House in mourning, her son having been killed in an accident.

President Buchanan's niece and adopted daughter, Harriet Lane Johnston, succeeded Mrs. Pierce. She is described as having been "tall and commanding, with a perfectly molded form, large, dark blue eyes, finely cut features, the mouth particularly lovely and a skin of milk and roses." At functions she was as majestic as a queen.

THOUSANDS HUNTING DEER IN MICHIGAN

Parties from Five States Invade Territory in Large Numbers

Marquette, Mich. (AP)—A great army of deer hunters were on their way to the upper Michigan big game front Thursday, each bent upon getting his venison before the five-day season ends.

Mimrods have been streaming into the peninsula for more than a week, state conservation officers asserted. More than 1,000 automobiles, bearing hunting parties from lower Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio had been ferried across the straits of Mackinac up to Wednesday night. A great number of sportsmen have also arrived from Wisconsin.

The male population of urban communities in the peninsula deserted their homes Thursday and joined the visiting force to run for deer. Small towns in the hunting areas have been filled by the influx of hunters. Hotels and rooming houses overflowed before Thursday and visitors were taken into private homes.

Deer are plentiful, according to E. D. Mosher, Marquette, a state conservation officer. Hunting conditions, however, were not of the best. Mild weather prevailed and the blanket of snow, that is all-necessary for a successful deer hunt, was lacking.

WERNER SENTENCES TWO FOR EXTORTING $1,200

Milwaukee (AP)—Found guilty of extorting $1,200 from Anton Becher, Joseph E. Van Serk, formerly of Manitowish, and William Simon were denied a new trial by Judge Edgar V. Werner, Shawano, who imposed sentences of one to two years on the men Wednesday.

Van Serk was sentenced to the state prison at Waupun while Simon was sent to the Green Bay reformatory. A circuit court jury found the two guilty Tuesday.

STRIKE BECAUSE CREW HAS NON-UNION MEN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. (AP)—Because the captain of the tug Belleness and some of his crew are not members of the tugmen's union, the tug, a dredge and 4 scows are tied up here and work on dredging the St. Mary river is handicapped. In sympathy with tug workers who refused to work alongside the non-union tug captain and his men, workers on the dredge and scows stopped work Wednesday. About 30 men are affected by the walkout.

CRUISER IS NAMED FOR COOLIDGE HOME TOWN

Washington (AP)—Secretary Willbur has named the seventh of the eight ten thousand ton cruisers under construction Northampton, after the Massachusetts home town of President Coolidge.

HAS MANY REASONS FOR STEALING CARS HE INFORMS COURT

Chicago (AP)—There are many reasons why a person might steal an automobile and William L. Fenker knew them all. Judge Lindley, before whom Fenker appeared Wednesday enumerated the cars Fenker was charged with having stolen. "My wife and four children needed food, so I stole a car," replied Fenker.

And the second car? "pursued the court. "My wife needed an operation, so I stole a car," said Fenker. "And the next two cars?" "A friend of mine needed money," said Fenker, "so I helped him steal the machines."

The court gave Fenker a year on probation, suggesting that should any financial emergency arise he cast about for some means of meeting it other than taking automobiles that belong to somebody else.

MEASLES MAY BREAK OUT AGAIN WITHIN A YEAR

Madison (AP)—An indirect warning that measles may resume their importance as a disease in Wisconsin next year or within a year, came from the state department of health Thursday.

The health board quoted the rise and fall of the disease's prevalence in the state. It attained a low average thus far in 1928, the board receiving reports of only 2,413 cases and nine deaths up to Oct. 1, while the calendar year 1927 saw 21,714 cases and 89 deaths. In 1926 there were 28,301 cases reported and 144 deaths from measles.

"It is characteristic of measles," said the announcement that periods of low frequency occur followed by periods of high frequency. This is called "temporarily fortunate" since there is no vaccine which can be applied for prevention."

BUSINESS STAFF OF TALISMAN ELECTED

The business staff of the Talisman, high school weekly publication has been chosen, with the exception of the business manager, according to an announcement by Miss Ruth Saecker, faculty sponsor of the paper.

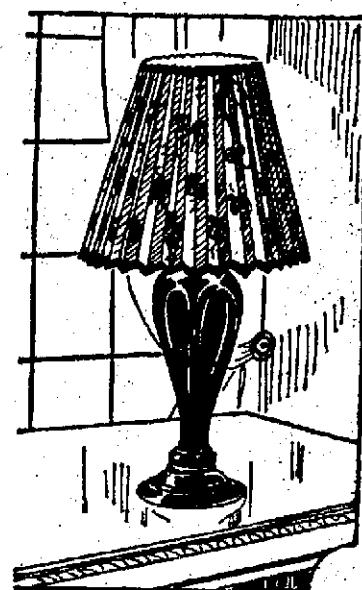

Robert Mader and Roy Marston are circulation managers and members of the advertising staff are Mildred Albrecht, Merlin Pitt, Paul Hackbert, Richard Graef, Hazel Thomas, Norman Trues, Stansbury Young, and Lawrence Oosterhaus. The business assistants are Florence Nelson, Marguerite Bushy, Alice Bergman and Clifford Burg.

Game Postponed—The volleyball game between the Lawrence college professors and Y. M. C. A. men's team scheduled for 7:30 Wednesday evening has been postponed indefinitely, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director and coach of the association team. Several members of the teams failed to arrive at the association building, Wednesday evening.
